GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"All the day long, this was his song,
Oh, dear! what will become of us?
Oh, dear! what shall we do?
We shall die of blue devils if some of us Can't hit on something that's new."

If the National Press club had a brick from the original little two-story building, with a slate roof, that stood on the corner where its new home is to be reared, and where Burchell's grocery store was located in the old days before there were even horse cars on F street, it would have a souvenir worth while.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw doubtless will come to her senses in time and realize that she has a pretty good kid to live for.

Vesuvius is in eruption and pretty soon it'll be Mt. Mussolini again. Life in Italy is just one upheaval after another.

After closing his doors to the immigrants of the world, prohibiting the import of its wines and liquors, rearing a tariff wall around America, refusing to join the League of Nations, and insisting on the payment of the war debts, Uncle Sam is amazed to discover that the world has taken steps to protect itself by monopolizing the raw materials it controls. As our gifted editorial writer this morning remarks, "It is an axiom of gamblers that 'you can not win where you can not lose.'"

Speaking of the outrageous British rubber monopoly it is understood that England is much interested in the Senate's investigation of Andy Mellon's aluminum trust.

We trust that if Princess Astrid marries him she will bear in mind that the Prince of Wales will insist on wearing the petticoats.

Washington lady pleads guilty to a charge of bigamy. It seems she married, as Kipling would say, "A soldier, and a sailor, too."

"The friendly cow all red and white,

I love with all my heart:
She gives me cream with all her might

To eat with apple tart."

Secretary Jardine's pet moo-cow breaks a record by giving milk with all her might. "Carry on Lady Lettie" sure does carry on, and takes the niche in Washington's bovine hall of fame once occupied by Pauline Wayne. Mr. Taft will remember her, if you don't.

A test vote in the Senate indicates that there is a two-thirds majority for the world court but it must be remembered that at this stage of the proceedings the advocates of the League of Nations were also confident that we would go into that. Never say die!

It looks as though Commissioner Fenning might have to flash one of those "stop and go" signs on Brother Eldridge.

The suggestion heard in Congress of a radio censorship foretells the time when the expression "free as the air" will be as obsolete in this country as "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Pope Pius thinks that if St. Paul lived today he would be a newspaper man, reaching the multitudes through the press. And who can doubt, from his Epistle to the Ephesians, that he would be a good reporter? "How that by revelation," he wrote, "he made known unto me the mystery; (as I wrote before in few words); Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand
...)"! Here is the very essence of good reporting.

Somebody should hasten to calm the fears of Representatives Rainey and Hull by explaining to 'em that in a few months Uncle Sam will be collecting his Italian debt from the Roman Empire—maybe.

One glance at the Commissioners' scheme for handling a snow storm ought to be enough to make any self-respecting blizzard decide to give Washington a wide berth this winter.

Some may be fooled by the report that in tearing down the old Ebbitt House to make room for the Press Club's new $10,000,000 bungalow Henry Swinhart used a gilded pick, but the inside low-down is that it was solid gold, studded with diamonds. And we remember when Dennis Mullany's back room was good enough for Bob Wynne, and Sam Blythe, and Dick Lindsay, and Gen. Boynton, and Alfred Henry Lewis, and all the other reporters!

HOOVER DECLARES NATIONS SQUEEZING BILLION FROM U. S.

Foreign Monopolies Held Grave Menace to World Peace.

URGES DEVELOPMENT OF RESOURCES HERE

Americans Being Gouged for Rubber, Coffee, Cotton and Nitrates, He Says.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
Apicture of gouging, affecting every household in the United States, which will tax consumers $1,200,000,000 for the current year, was presented to the House interstate commerce committee yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and three of his chief lieutenants. Foreign government monopolies, he said, in rubber, Egyptian long staple cotton, camphor, coffee, iodine, nitrates, mercury and sisal affect directly all consumers here, while there are other commodities which are only partly controlled.

According to Mr. Hoover, the success of these monopolies has been responsible for the planning of additional monopolies, all directed at the United States which, after all, is the biggest market place for the world. The situation is very serious, in the opinion of not only Mr.
Hoover, but the committee itself, and it is hopeful that a way will be found to protect the consumers and at the same time avoid international complications.

Secretary Hoover was cross-examined by the committee behind closed doors. He made it very plain that the governments exercising monopolies resent any suggestion of retaliatory action by the United States. Nevertheless, he insisted, remedies must be sought and applied.

Efforts Launched At.

That efforts initiated by the State Department to get the various governments to assist the American consumer to stabilize his losses were laughed at was shown through the reading by Mr. Hoover of various correspondence between Secretary of State Kellogg, the British, Brazilian and other governments at the suggestion of the Commerce Department. These letters, read in secret session, were laughable because of the fulsome nature of their character but, in every instance, insisting that the various governments "had this problem before them for solution for years and finally had been compelled to insist on 'control.'"

Control is the foreign slogan, according to these letters, despite the undercurrent, very palpable, which resented any suggestion that the various nations could in any way be prohibited from retaking their war debts from the affable American consumer.

While the Secretary was on the stand there broke out in both the Senate and the House sharp attack on the committee proposals. Senator King, of Utah (Democrat), in-

Washingtonian Killed As He Starts Home

Abe Rubenstein, 29 years old, of 1749 T street northwest, was run down and killed by an unidentified automobile driver yesterday in Miami, Fla., according to word received here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rubenstein, of the above address. He was hit while on his way to the railroad station to board a train for Washington. He suffered a crushed skull and died before medical attention could reach him.

He came to this city from New York and for the past seven years had been engaged with his brother, Samuel Rubenstein, in a dyeing and cleaning business at 1220 Twenty-nd street northwest.

Elephant Must Pay For Damage With Life

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 6 (By A.
P.).—"Tex," the circus elephant that recently went on a rampage near Augusta, Ark., tore up crops and was sought through the countryside for several days, is to be electrocuted. This was learned today when his owner, William Newton, arrived here.

"Tex," who is about 100 years old and is reputed to have killed nine men in all, is staked out near Hot Springs.

Merger Reports Collapse As Transit Inquiry Is Voted

North American Head Gives Figures to Capper, De- nying Control of Local Lines—Third of W. R. & E. Owned by Concern.

Reports of an impending transportation merger, which have turned the last several months on the reported control of both local traction companies by the North American Co., of New York, were disclosed yesterday by the without foundation.

Writing to Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, in order to "clear up any misunderstanding," F. L.
Dame, president of the North American Co., revealed that his organization has far from majority holdings in either company.

Of the 150,000 "voting" shares, both common and preferred, of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., Mr. Dame's organization owns but 48,750 shares of the former and 3,000 of the latter, his letter said. In the Capital Traction Co., the North American's holding constitute but 4,002 shares of common stock out of 120,000, he said.

His company, does, however,
own 21,126 shares of the 21,600 of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., recently acquired. It also has 38 shares of common stock in the City & Suburban Railway Co.

The North American's total holdings here, according to Mr.

TRANSFER OF BIBESCO OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

Prince Will Return Here to Present Letters of Recall; New Post Not Named.

CLASHED WITH TITULESCO

Bucharest, Roumania, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—The foreign office announced tonight that Prince Antoine Bibesco is to be recalled as Minister to the United States and assigned to another diplomatic post elsewhere. Prince Bibesco, who is at present in Roumania, will go to Washington shortly to present his letters of recall.

The sudden return to Bucharest in December of Prince Antoine Bibesco caused a lively discussion in Roumanian diplomatic circles. The Roumanian papers asserted that differences had arisen between the Minister to the United States and Nicholas Titulesco, Minister to Great Britain, who headed the recent debt funding mission to Washington and who is still in the United States.

While in New York M. Titulesco, commenting on Bucharest dispatches that such a disagreement had arisen, remarked that he was very satisfied with the terms of the American settlement.

Later dispatches declared that in diplomatic circles in Bucharest it was stated that M. Titulesco had threatened to resign his post at London unless Prince Bibesco was transferred from Washington.

Prince Bibesco's wife was Miss Elizabeth Asquith, daughter of Herbert H. Asquith, at one time British prime minister. Prince Bibesco was appointed Minister to the United States in 1920, having previously been first secretary of the legation at London.

S O S SIGNALS TELL OF COLLISIONS AT SEA

One Purports to Come From Steamer Angus; Other Is From Fort Worth.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 6 (By A.
P.).—An SOS call intercepted here through great interference reported the steamship Angus in collision with an unknown steamer off Delaware breakwater at 11:15 o'clock tonight. The only other information gleaned was that the Angus was proceeding toward Philadelphia, listing badly.

Available shipping records list
no vessel under the name Angus.
Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (By A.
P.).—The radio operator at the United States coast guard station at Lewes, Del., said tonight that he had received no SOS call reporting the steamship Angus in collision with an unidentified vessel off Delaware breakwater. He reported, however, hearing a message that the Fort Worth, a freighter, had collided early tonight with an unnamed vessel just off the Delaware capes.

It was assumed, the coast guard station said, that as there had been no further news of the collision that it was not of serious character.

PARIS RAISES DYKES; FLOOD ENTERS CITY; DISASTER IS FEARED

Seine Crest Is Not Likely Until Friday; Railway Traffic Hindered.

INHABITANTS ABANDON ISLAND OF ST. DENIS

Town of Guise Under Water; Soissons Cut Off; Oise Valley Becomes Lake.

Paris, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—Paris is in an extremely critical situation; a further rise of thirty inches in the Seine would precipitate a catastrophe. Despite protective works hastily thrown up on both sides of the river, the waters are invading the city. The first effect of this is the closing of the Invalides Railroad station, directly across the street from the ministry of foreign affairs.

Traffic to Versailles, Rambouillet, Dreux and Granville has been suspended. The island of St. Denis was abandoned this evening by the residents, who took refuge in the city barracks, while Fort Vincennes, set aside for the accommodation of refugees in the eastern part of the city, already shelters hundreds.

The Seine has risen from two to four feet in the last 24 hours and weather officials who predicted yesterday that the peak of the flood would be reached tonight, say now that it will continue to swell until Friday.

Highest Since 1910.

At Austerlitz bridge, the Seine registers 5.20 meters (about 17 feet), which is the highest since 1910, when the most disastrous floods in the history of the city occurred. The electric railway tracks between Paris and Versailles for several miles are under water.

While the people of Paris are not panicky, they are waiting for the worst.

The flooding of the Oise has caused a veritable disaster along the whole length of the valley, which has the appearance of a lake nearly a mile wide. The town of Guise is completely under water, the population living in the upper stories of their houses and receiving provisions by boat.

The river Vesle—where so many Americans fought and fell in the great war—began to overflow today and Fismes and Braine are threatened. Soissons, on the Aisne, is cut off from railroad communication, and the lower quarters have been evacuated.

Marne Roaring Torrent.

The Marne continues a roaring torrent; it rose 30 inches in the past 24 hours. Chateau Thierry is badly flooded. The northern railroad tracks between Paris and Lille and Paris and Brussels are so deeply flooded.

PICK UP HYDROPLANE 30 MILES OFF SHORE

Dropped From Height of 1,000 Feet to Water, Ship Captain Believes.

New York, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—
The Lloyd Brazilian steamship Alegrete docked tonight in Brooklyn, carrying a disabled hydroplane which was picked up about 30 miles south of Barnegat on Tuesday last. O. Barboza Lima, captain of the ship, reported the hy-droplane was found upside down, its aluminum wings and fuselage smashed.

There was no trace of occupants except for several pairs of goggles.
The plane was equipped with six motors. Its electric time watch was still running when the plane was picked up. Capt. Lima said he judged the plane had fallen from a height of about 1,000 feet.

Condition of Mercier Gives Doctors Worry

Brussels, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).— Cardinal Mercier's condition is giving the attending physicians much concern. His recovery after an operation for a lesion of the stomach more than a week ago has not kept pace with their hopes. His age has militated against him and probably, too, his hardships in the world war.

A consultation of physicians was deemed advisable today. At its conclusion a bulletin was issued stating that the cardinal's condition was stationary and that his pulse was less irregular.

MILITIA SEEK PENSION BUILDING FOR ARMORY

National Guard, Ordered to Vacate Present Quarters, Would Use Rotunda.

STORAGE SPACE IS ASKED

Use of the pension office building for armory purposes is being sought by the District of Columbia National Guard, it was disclosed yesterday.
The guard proposes to use certain rooms for offices and storerooms and to conduct its indoor drills in the historic old rotunda, the scene of many inaugural balls.

Efforts in this direction have been disclosed through a letter from Maj.
Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding general of the guard, to the public buildings commission. Gen. Stephan points out that the local guard has received notice to vacate its present armory at 472 L street northwest and feels that the pension office would best serve its purposes when the change is made.

The guard does not require the entire building, Gen. Stephan says.
It would need only a certain part of it, where it would have offices in some rooms and use others for storage space. It proposes to drill in the rotunda, which, being 116 by 316 feet, would offer adequate accommodations. The floor of the rotunda is tile and probably would not sustain more than ordinary drilling, however.

This proposal will be one of the items taken up by the buildings commission at the meeting it will hold within a few days. Of course, the entire project is dependent upon the vacation of the building by the pension office, which, according to plans, would take quarters in the interior building.

It is doubtful that the commission will approve of the National Guard's plan. It is, however, interested in the armory needs of the guard and will make every effort to locate headquarters in some building.

San Francisco Region Feels Earth Shocks

San Francisco, Jan. 6 (By A.
P.).—A sharp earthquake was felt in the San Francisco bay region at 9:54 o'clock tonight. Two distinct shocks lasting about 5 seconds, were felt in Oakland, while San Francisco and points south along the peninsula received a sharp shock.

MAN, HIT BY AUTO, DIES IN FEW HOURS

L. L. Kelley's Chest Crushed Under Car at Seventh and Pennsylvania Avenue.

Lester L. Kelley, 40 years old, of 129 C street northwest, died last night at Emergency hospital of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile driven by Charles Calloway, 36 years old, of 1022 Third street northeast, at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The wheels, passing over the body of Kelley, crushed his chest and he died a few hours after being taken to the hospital.

Calloway was arrested by police of the First precinct, but later released to appear at the inquest ordered by Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.
Police tested the brakes on Callo-way's automobile immediately following the accident and found them to be in perfect condition.

According to police, Kelley was stepping off the street car loading platform on Pennsylvania avenue when his foot caught in some obstruction and he fell into the path of the automobile.

ELDRIDGE IN BREAK WITH POLICE OVER TRAFFIC AUTHORITY

Department Fails to Give Cooperation, Director Alleges in Letter.

IGNORES REQUESTS TO ENFORCE RULES

Lack of Power Is Declared Serious Handicap; Cites Fenning's Activities.

Reported discord in the District building developed openly yesterday when Traffic Director Eldridge wrote Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate committee, that he was director in name only and did not have the cooperation of the police department.

"I have no authority over the police," protested Mr. Eldridge, "and many of my requests to enforce regulations, including the parking regulations in the downtown district, have been ignored."

The traffic director's letter was elicited by a letter from Senator Capper submitting the complaint of the Loose Wiles Biscuit Co. against its handicaps in making deliveries.
Double parking was banned, the company complained, and as a result deliveries were almost impossible.

Cites Parking Regulation.

Mr. Eldridge said that when the double parking ban was effected he sought to relieve business houses with a regulation which would permit double parking for vehicles making deliveries, provided the driver was always in sight or call.
The District commissioners, however, disapproved this regulation, he said, adding that he was not very sorry that he did.

But he will never be able to give relief to merchants and others until he has something to say about enforcement of traffic regulations, he declared. Ten men recently were assigned by the police department to the enforcement of downtown parking regulations, he added, but after a few days were removed. As a result, he declared, downtown parking regulations are being violated on the wholesale scale by clerks, merchants, business men, doctors and lawyers.

"If the superintendent of police would assign to the traffic bureau 10 or 12 young vigorous officers," he continued, "who are not acquainted in the business district with the business men and clerks, I feel certain that we could enforce this regulation, thereby permitting merchants who have goods to deliver to find places at the curb to park their cars."

No Authority, He Says.

"Until I have some authority over the traffic police I do not believe that it will be possible for me to afford any relief to the Loose Wiles Biscuit Co. or to any other concern who has goods to deliver in the congested district. I have no authority over the police and many of my requests to enforce regulations, including the parking regulations in the downtown district, have been ignored."

That the friction is not confined to the director and superintendent of police, however, is the impression gained by several members of Congress.

One member, prominent in District affairs, said that he had ascertained that Mr. Eldridge did not favor the proposed all-night parking ban. This member's information was that Commissioner Fenning had suggested the idea to Mr.
Eldridge and that the latter had recommended that the plan be deferred for ten or twelve months.
The next Mr. Eldridge is said to have heard of it was the placing of the plan before the public by Commissioner Fenning.

Several senators and members of the House have filed protests against the plan, but latest reports

Florida Hotel Man Kidnaped and Flogged

Haines City, Fla., Jan. 6 (By A.
P.).—Authorities tonight were investigating a report that F. S. Barlow, Haines City hotel man, was kidnaped and flogged last night by a band of five men.

The abduction and flogging became known tonight when Barlow brought an advertisement to a local newspaper offering a reward of $500 for information leading to the conviction of his abductors.
Police declared the matter had not been reported to them.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION URGES PLAYGROUNDS BE OPENED ALL YEAR

Pledges Effort to Obtain Any Necessary Increase in Appropriations.

NEGROES SUPPORT PLAN, BUT ISSUE WARNING

Stand in Favor of Elective Board of Education Is Reaffirmed.

School playgrounds must be kept open throughout the year, the Public School association declared in a resolution adopted at its meeting in the board room of the District building last night.

The association pledged itself to seek sufficient increase in the appropriations for the operation of school playgrounds as will be necessary to keep them open next year. The resolution was introduced by Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter and provided for appointment of a committee to confer with Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, supervisor of municipal playgrounds, to ascertain the amount needed above the $21,000 in the estimates, to keep the grounds open.

Walter Frey, secretary of the association, held that the scope of the original resolution should be extended to include all school playgrounds and, as adopted, it embraced all of the grounds.

Distinctions Protested.

George H. Russell, of the Park View Citizens association, declared there should be no distinction between school and municipal playgrounds, but that attention should be centered on the acquisition of adequate playgrounds. Miss Frances S. Fairley, principal of the Park View school, said there had been complete harmony between the school and the conduct of the Park View municipal playground.

The negroes of Washington will support any plan to add to the playground space for the children. Maj. West Hamilton and Maj. Oscar J. W. Scott declared. But, Maj. Scott added, "if we are forgotten again we are going to raise the devil again. We are for all of the people of Washington, but we must have playgrounds for our children."

A proposal of Mrs. J. W. Byler, of the Langdon Parent-Teachers' Association, who favored the Mills-Wadsworth mothers' pension bill as against the Keller bill because the latter gave temporary administration of the pensions to the board of charities, was referred to the legislative committee.

Favors Elective Board.

The association reaffirmed its stand in favor of an elective board of education, following a statement by Mrs. W. T. Bannerman.

Mr. Yaden, president of the association, defended the budget bureau and his action at the meeting of citizens with the board of education when he endorsed the 1927 estimates, and declared that the appropriations authorized in those estimates would total, with additions, $3,000,000 in two years.

"Freedom of Education"

was discussed by Dr. Stanwood Cobb, who protested any movement which sought to standardize education and produce "quantity production rather than quality production."

The axioms of commercial production were not applicable to education, Dr. Cobb declared.

NORFOLK STEAMER AGROUND IN RIVER OFF QUANTICO

The steamer District of Columbia, of the Norfolk and Washington line, caught on a mud flat off Quantico, Va., after it had become lost in the fog Tuesday and had strayed from the channel. The 125 passengers were taken ashore by a tug. Photo indicates how close the vessel came to striking the concrete breakwater opposite the U. S. marine camp, and the water line on the hull shows the extent it is aground.

HAMLIN CHURCH DINERS ADDRESSED BY DAWES

Bishop McDowell Also Speaks at Dedication Banquet of Methodists.

GIFTS FROM COMMITTEE

The dedication banquet committee of new Hamlin Methodist Episcopal church furnished a birthday gift to the second lady of the land last night. When Vice President Dawes had finished his speech at the dinner, Mrs. E. S. Brashears and Mrs. John Muirhead, of the banquet committee, presented him with a bouquet for Mrs. Dawes. In thanking them, the Vice President smilingly admitted that it was his wife's birthday and he had not had time to get her any flowers.

Vice President Dawes referred to the new church as a great building that would extend the influence of the church. He reminded the congregation that it would be common sacrifices that would bring the "esprit de corps" to give it power.

Other speakers were the Rt. Rev. William F. McDowell, bishop of Washington; the Rev. Henry J. Houchell, the Rev. Joseph T. Henson, E. S. Brashears, treasurer of the building committee; the Rev. Harry Ewald, Baltimore, former pastor of Iowa Avenue church; E. D. Godfrey, trustee emeritus, who was present when the first Hamlin church was organized, July 2, 1905, was presented to the assembly. Two silver coffee service sets were presented to Harry C. James and Frederick C. Stelzer of the building committee. Walter M. Bastian, church trustee, presided. More than 350 were in attendance.

C. H. SMALL IS HOST TO FIRM'S EMPLOYEES

Realty Financing, Zoning and Ethics Discussed by Speakers at Dinner.

C. H. Small was host to the members of the sales organization and construction department of C. H. Small & Co., realtors and builders, at a get-together dinner in the Chinese room of the Mayflower hotel last evening. George C. DeNeale, sales manager, was toastmaster.

In addition to the employees of the firm, guests included B. F. Saul, Bernard Saul, J. Dallas Grady, Frank Bell, Joseph B. Bolling, John Saul, Roger O. Whitford, Maj. R. A. Wheeler, assistant engineer commissioner; Rufus S. Luske, secretary of the Operative Builders association, and Howard Moran, of the American Security & Trust Co.

Addresses were made with reference to the requirements and ethics of a salesman, proper zoning of a city and the financing of real estate. After the dinner a round-table discussion on general real estate topics was held.

2 HURT, SON ESCAPES IN AUTO COLLISION

Dr. J. J. Scott and Mrs. Scott, of Vienna, Va., Taken Here; Driver Released.

Dr. J. J. Scott, of Vienna, Va., and his wife were injured when their automobile was in collision with a machine driven by S. F. Hutchinson, 1225 Fifth street northeast, near Virginia Highlands yesterday afternoon. James Scott, their son, escaped injury.

The Scott automobile was demolished and its three occupants had to be extricated through a hole in the top. Dr. Scott suffered cuts on the body and Mrs. Scott a possible rib fracture. Both were treated at Emergency hospital in this city.

Deputy Sheriff Pauline Smith arrested Hutchinson, but later released him after she became convinced that the accident was unavoidable.

19 Pneumonia Cases, 3 Deaths Reported

Nineteen new cases of pneumonia and three deaths from the disease were reported to the District health department yesterday. Dr. William C. Fowler, health officer, said the deaths were not exceeding the usual January pneumonia records and he thought the apparent increase in the usual number of cases was due to increased care by physicians in reporting them.

FIRST BRICK REMOVED FROM OLD EBBITT HOTEL

National Press Club Officers Start Razing on Site of the $10,000,000 Edifice.

200 ATTEND CEREMONY

Wielding gilded picks, three men joined in knocking a brick from the old Ebbitt hotel yesterday, thus inaugurating the task of removing that ancient structure from the landscape. In its place will rise the $10,000,000 National Press building.

The ceremony that marked the beginning of the hotel's destruction was witnessed by 200 persons, who included District Commissioners Penning and Bell, John Hays Hammond, John Joy Edson and other notables.

Commissioner Penning opened the ceremony by removing the historical marker on the building and presenting it to Henry L. Swenhart, former president of the National Press club. This marker, which bears the information that the hotel was used by President William McKinley, will be retained as a souvenir.

Using a gilded pick, Mr. Swenhart then removed a brick from the corner of the hotel. He was joined in this homely but highly significant job by John Hays Hammond and James W. Bryan. The brick was then presented to B. D. Hulien, secretary of the temporary holding corporation which has charge of the financing of the new building.

The work of razing the Ebbitt hotel, the Hooe building and a small structure between them will be completed by the middle of March, and then the George A. Fuller Co. will begin construction of the new building.

Loyal Legion Dames Request Repudiation

Aroused by the reported statement of Mrs. John D. Lawton, national president of the Daughters of the Confederacy, that Abraham Lincoln freed the negroes so that they might rise up and attack the women of the South, the Dames of the Loyal Legion last night drafted a letter of protest and sent it to Mrs. Lawton.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Sophie Casey in the Oakland apartments. In the letter to Mrs. Lawton the Dames of the Loyal Legion ask that the Daughters of the Confederacy repudiate the statement attributed to Mrs. Lawton and ask further that a closer study be made of the life of Lincoln.

The man then ran into the basement and left through the front basement door. A wrist watch, $63 in value, an overcoat and several other articles were discovered to be missing.

DEATHS OF TWO MEN HELD TO BE ACCIDENT

Coroner's Jury Finds Father and Son Died of Gas Poisoning.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner's jury yesterday, inquiring into the deaths of Carson Helskell, 49 years old, and his son, Lawrence Helskell, 25, who were found dead Sunday night in their apartment at 3520 M street northwest, apparently from gas poisoning.

Testimony was presented to the jury showing that the odor of gas had been noticed by residents near the Helskell apartment, and reported to the police and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. The jury found, however, that no responsibility could be placed for the deaths of the two men.

J. H. Eisenman, of the bureau of standards, testified that he was called on questions of fact concerning gas appliances.

Col. Carlson to Talk On Auto Headlights

"Motor Vehicle Headlighting" will be the subject of a talk by Col. R. E. Carlson, of the bureau of standards before the Washington section of the Society of Automotive Engineers at their meeting at the Cosmos Ballroom tonight.

Col. Carlson in his research work at the bureau has learned many things about road illumination by means of the automobile headlight, and his suggestions and recommendations have in most every instance been adopted as standard practice by States and municipalities which have passed effective regulations. Here in the District his suggestions have been followed in passing the present headlight law.

He was arrested by Headquarters Detectives Frank Allgood and Eugene Davis. Geare, who gave his address as the Woodward building, was released in $500 bond to appear later for trial.

SURVEY OF NORMAL SCHOOLS IN DISTRICT IS ASKED BY BOARD

Demand of 24 Idle Graduates for Positions as Teachers Raises Issue.

CHANGES IN LAW HERE INVOLVED IN ACTION

Members Protest Methods of Appropriating for the New Buildings.

At the same meeting at which 24 idle graduates of the 1925 class of Wilson Normal school demanded appointment as teachers in the public schools, the board of education yesterday asked the United States bureau of education to study and report on both the Wilson and Miner Normal schools.

Notice that the situation had reached the point where a new policy was demanded was given in his annual report by Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, made public recently, and the demand of the Wilson school graduates for appointment and the recommendation of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, for the survey brought the matter to a head.

Questions Involved in Study.

Involved in the study by the bureau of education are such questions as whether the present law requiring appointment of all graduates of the normal schools before others are appointed as teachers shall be limited and the law left the same and variations of these propositions. Dr. Ballou is understood to favor the injection of new blood into the teaching staff of the District public schools so that all District teachers will not be made to one pattern.

The petition of the Wilson Normal school graduates was signed by eight graduates. It was read by Miss Helen E. Daum. Others who signed were Cecelia Nichols, Katherine E. Schneider, Elsie M. Ewers, Lucile A. Crain, Catherine Ruth, Lillian M. Krause and Jessie M. Standish. Miss Daum said the petition represented the plea also of the 16 other graduates of last year class who have not been appointed as teachers. Twenty-four others are to be graduated the last of this month. There are no vacancies for them.

Ballou Challenges Statement.

The statement contained in the petition that the graduates had been assured by school officials of appointments was challenged by Dr. Ballou with the question: "Who gave the assurance?" Miss Daum was not specific and said she did not know the statement was in the petition in just the manner in which it had been inserted.

An echo of the controversy over the intelligence tests for public school pupils was found in the approval by the board of recommendation of Dr. Ballou that the assistant superintendents in charge of educational research be charged with the examination and determination of the mental capacity of pupils for the purpose of assigning pupils to a typical school.

Such examinations and determination heretofore has been the duty of the medical inspection service, of which Dr. Joseph Murphy, of the health department, is the chief. The new rule of the board will take this away from the medical inspection service and place the determination in the hands of the assistant superintendents.

Appropriation Methods Assailed.

The forthcoming congressional hearings on school appropriations will witness a rebuff by school authorities against methods of appropriating for new schools. The question was raised in the board meeting when Dr. H. B. Learned submitted a report approving the request of the municipal architect for the painting of the interior walls of the new John F. Cook school out of the repair funds.

Ernest Greenwood protested against the continued "raiding of the repair fund" for new construction. "Appropriations are pared and pared until we are forever short from $2,000 to $10,000 of the amount needed to complete new buildings," Mr. Greenwood declared. "There should be an end to this."

Dr. Ballou agreed and the outgrowth was a determination by the board to stress that phase of school appropriations before the congressional committees at appropriations hearings. A summary of past instances in which new buildings have had to be completed out of the repair fund is being prepared.

The board approved the amendment to the teachers' retirement law without discussion. The committee report did not deal with the question of increasing the amounts in the amendment submitted by the teachers' council.

The wisdom of appointment of members of the board of education by the District commissioners, provided for in their original charter, was referred to the committee of the whole on motion by Mr. Greenwood, and this may afford an opportunity for the board of education to trash out the whole question of responsibility for essentials lacking in the schools.

World Eating Too Much; Calls Cave Man Wiser

London, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—The cave man, with only his limited food resources, chose a more sensible and healthful diet than his civilized descendant does, Sir W. Arbuthnot Lane, one of England's most eminent surgeons, said in an address to members of the Incorporated Association of Preparatory Schools.

The famous surgeon, just back from a six weeks' visit to the United States, contended that with tempting food displayed in the shops, the homes and almost everywhere, the world is eating entirely too much.

"We seem to be paying a terrible price for civilization," he said, explaining that modern men try to consume three or four times as much food as the savage had for his active life. This "overloading" is the principal cause of cancer and appendicitis, he declared.

The fight, the social democrats assert, is one between Premier Bethlen and Admiral Horthy. The latter is supporting the fascist, Albrecht, while Premier Bethlen, like all the aristocrats, is supporting Prince Otto, son of former Empress Zita.

Premier Bethlen owed the regent a grudge ever since Admiral Horthy delivered Emperor Charles to the powers, and the attitude of the French government gave him the longed-for opportunity. With this support he sent Prince Ludwig Windisch-Graetz to jail, and made it known that Nadassy himself had sealed the trunk containing the forged bills, and obtained a diplomatic passport for Col. Janakovich (arrested in Holland) and that Col. Laczowski, head of the map bureau, who was arrested and who was improperly released by Nadassy, was Horthy's confidential man.

To top all, Premier Bethlen invited Edmund Beniczky, former minister of the interior, who had accused Admiral Horthy of being indirectly a murderer, on the day he imprisoned Windisch-Graetz.

It remains to be seen, say the social democrats, which of the two mighty rivals will win.

The thirteen-mile stretch of road from here to Ludlow has been plowed clear of snow. This is believed the first time the automobile has been given preference over the sleigh.

John C. Coolidge's condition has continued unchanged since he recently lost the use of his legs.

HARD COAL PARLEY IN FIRM DEADLOCK, TO RESUME TODAY

Each Side Votes Down Every Proposal of Other, at Protracted Session.

LEWIS HOLDS ULTIMATE
FAILURE AS CALAMITY

Coal Region Publishers Ask Agreement to Put End to Suffering There.

New York, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—The anthracite joint wage conference adjourned at 10:30 p. m. in an absolute deadlock until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, after an all-day session.

Both sides expressed their willingness to continue negotiations in an endeavor to end the coal strike. President Lewis, of the miners, stated that he would regard the breakup of negotiations without an agreement as a "public calamity."

Various proposals offered by either side were voted upon and rejected by one side or the other.

The position of the operators was that they were willing to discuss the merits of any plan, but were convinced that, in order to resume operations, the coal markets and provide work for employees, an acceptable plan must provide for a long-term agreement, provision for wage adjustments if economic conditions require, and arbitration for avoiding deadlocks.

Propose Examining Books.
The miners offered a proposal for the examination of the operators' books by the miners' negotiating committee. The answer of the operators to this was:

"...that such submission and examination would be a task requiring the services of many experts and covering several weeks of either side's labor."

The miners proposed a joint request for the passage of a bill by Congress for Federal regulation of the anthracite industry. The operator's reply stated:

"Your proposal as to congressional legislation, as we read it, involves the regulation of the industry as a whole including the fixing by Congress, or such body as it shall create, of prices at which coal shall be sold and the wages for which the men shall work."

"After consulting counsel, we are advised that, regardless of other objections to this proposal, it is clearly beyond the constitutional power of either State or Federal legislature to pass such a law."

"We accordingly vote 'No' on this proposal."

Pinchot Plan Urged.
The miners then offered the following resolution:

"Be it resolved, by the joint conference that the plan of the governor of Pennsylvania be and is hereby adopted as the basis of settlement and a subcommittee is hereby created, both sides to appoint members, for the purpose of writing a contract upon the governor's proposal."

The operators voted "No."

The Markle plan was proposed by the operators. President Lewis made a long argument in opposition to this plan and the miners voted "No."

The following statement was then made by the operators:

"You have asked for our suggestion as to the next move. There is a difference of opinion between the two parties. It is the general custom and practice in all countries when differences arise between parties which can not be settled among themselves to have such differences referred to others to settle. In the present situation we have proposed to do this by arbitration. You still object to arbitration. In such case we feel the public looks to us to compose our differences by continuance of negotiations."

Replying, Mr. Lewis stated that the miners were willing to remain in the conference and that he would regard a break-up of the meeting without an agreement as a public calamity.

Publishers Give Views.
Scranton, Pa., Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—A demand that the anthracite strike be ended, and that miners and operators settle their differences, was contained in a telegram from publishers of the leading newspapers of the hard coal field this afternoon after a conference here.

The telegram was sent to the operators and miners representatives now in conference in New York. It reads in part:

"It should not be necessary to call your attention to the conditions that exist in the counties producing anthracite coal. You are as close to the heart-breaking situation as we. Stories of distress in the chief sufferers of special movements in many communities to relieve distress, of soup served in the public schools, of sickness caused in humble homes for want of fuel, have all been told to you in the newspapers and probably in private communication. They have not been overdrawn. The destitution in many cases is desperate."

Shepherd Opens Fight For Ward's Million

Chicago, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—William D. Shepherd today opened his circuit court fight for possession of the $1,000,000 estate of his ward, William Nelson McClintock, for whose death he was acquitted.

Shepherd seeks a reversal of the order refusing to admit the McClintock will to probate, which held that Shepherd had failed to overturn the presumption of undue influence over his foster son when the latter executed his will leaving the bulk of his estate to Shepherd. The will gives to McClintock's fiancée, Miss Isabelle Pope only an $8,000 annuity.

Antievolution Act Up in Mississippi
Jackson, Miss., Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—Representative Robinson, of Mississippi, introduced a bill in the Mississippi legislature today to prohibit the teaching of the theory of evolution in schools and colleges of Mississippi, supported in whole or in part by State appropriation.

The bill is almost a replica of the Tennessee law and would provide a fine of from $100 to $500 for violations.

IRVING BERLIN'S BRIDE HAPPY BUT HEARTSICK
Former Elin Mackay on Verge of Breakdown When Her Father Keeps Silence.

New York, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—"I am supremely happy, but oh, so heartsick!" Mrs. Irving Berlin confided to reporters upon her arrival from Atlantic City today. She referred to her father's failure to send any word to her or to her husband since their marriage Monday.

Mrs. Berlin appeared on the verge of breaking down, biting her lips as if to restrain the tears and nervously fingering her handkerchief.

She intimated she and her husband would probably not sail on the Leviathan Saturday for a honeymoon in Europe. She said she came to New York to attend the wedding of Consuelo Vanderbilt to Earl E. T. Smith tomorrow.

Special delivery letters have been sent to both the father and mother of the bride, but the former has not replied, she said. Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph Co., continued to be silent on his daughter's marriage, and published reports that he had drawn up a new will disinheriting his daughter could not be verified at his home tonight.

An attorney for Mr. Mackay said he knew nothing of the reported new will.

Advertising Rates Too Low, Ochs Says
New York, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—Asserting that existing advertising rates are too low, Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, today told advertising men at a luncheon of the Advertising club, that every issue of the Times cost the owners $50,000, or approximately 14 cents a copy.

He said that the present advertising rates tend to cheapen newspapers, and expressed the belief that higher rates would improve their advertising. He suggested that advertisers should spend 90 per cent of their appropriations in keeping existing customers, while 10 per cent should be used in getting new customers.

Manchester, England, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—Three thousand unemployed men, many of whom gathered at daybreak, and others later after walking miles in response to an advertisement for six handy men, stormed a factory today when they found the jobs had been filled.

It took the police some time to quell the disturbance. In the way of conciliation the manager hired three additional men.

PRIEST NOT A MEMBER OF FANATICAL ORDER

Writes Denial to Bishop as Woman Leader Tells of a New Obsession.

MORE CHARGES BROUGHT

Bombon, Department of Seine et Marne, France, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—The denial of Abbe des Noyers that he ever belonged to the fanatical "Order of our Lady of Tears" and Marie Mesmin's claim that even last night she felt the priest's evil influence marked today's developments in Bombon's dark ages.

Father des Noyers, hardly able to hold a pen, prepared a report for the Bishop of Meaux, who is flogging by twelve members of the fanatical sect, who sought to "exorcise evil spirits from his body."

He denied he had ever belonged to the order, but admitted having been in correspondence with some of its members. "I conclude that I have come in contact with visionaries and fanatics," he wrote.

Meanwhile, from Bordeaux came Mme. Mesmin's statement that last night she felt Father des Noyers gripping her throat. She said she called to her husband, who, by sprinkling her with holy

ALUMINUM COMPANY CASE INVESTIGATION ORDERED BY SENATE

Failure of Justice Department to Bring Contempt Action Is Inquiry's Object.

SARGENT AND DONOVAN WILL BE WITNESSES

Hearings to Start Today With Senator Walsh as the Chief Prosecutor.

(By the Associated Press.) Investigation of the failure of the Department of Justice to bring contempt proceedings against the Aluminum Company of America, in which Secretary Mellon is a large stockholder, was ordered yesterday by the Senate.

The inquiry will be started today by the judiciary committee, with Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, as the chief prosecutor. Mr. Walsh said last night that Attorney General Sargent and Assistant Attorney General Donovan would be the principal witnesses.

Other Data Sought. Besides ordering this inquiry, the Senate also requested Mr. Sargent to report as to whether he believed the Federal Trade Commission had a legal right to withhold from the Justice Department evidence obtained from the aluminum company when the commission conducted its investigation to determine whether the company had violated court decrees handed down in 1912.

The Walsh resolutions were adopted without debate or a record vote. When they were called up, Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, who blocked their consideration Tuesday, said he had consulted the "government officials interested" and they had no objection to the inquiries proposed.

Report Made in 1924. The demand for a Senate inquiry grew out of a report which the trade commission made to the Department of Justice on the Aluminum Co. of America during the closing days of the 1924 presidential campaign. In that report it was held that the company had violated court decrees attempting to prevent continuing certain practices held to be violative of the antitrust laws.

Some time after receiving this report, the then Attorney General, Harlan F. Stone, wrote the commission that, since the report covered the situation only to 1922 and the statute of limitation in such cases runs after one year, it would be necessary to continue the investigation to determine whether there had been violations within a period of time in which contempt proceedings could be instituted.

The commission invited the Justice Department to inspect all the evidence in its files, but subsequently it voted, 3 to 2, to hold, as confidential, evidence obtained from an examination of the books and papers of the Aluminum Co. itself. The Senate now wants to know whether this action was legal and if not, what steps the Justice Department has taken to obtain the evidence.

Tomorrow and Friday, the official weather forecasters prophesy, will see the culminating point of the floods in the Paris region. It is still raining intermittently.

Belgian Damage Heavy. Brussels, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—Belgium now is confronted with the task of restoring her flood devastated region. It is estimated that the damage is nearly as much as that caused by fire and sword in 1914. It will reach hundreds of millions of francs. Certain regions like the valleys of the Sambre and the Meuse, the restoration of which from the devastation of the war has just been concluded, present a pitiful aspect.

Except for northern Belgium, where the streams continued to rise, the flood situation tonight was less critical throughout the country. Normal conditions were returning slowly.

BERENGER OFF TO U. S.; OVATION GIVEN IN PARIS

Departs Amid Feeling That Way to Debt Agreement Has Been Cleared.

MELLON'S WORDS HAILED

Paris, Jan. 6 (By A. P.).—Victor Henry Berenger started on his important mission as France's Ambassador to Washington this afternoon under the best of auspices. He received a send-off from a crowd such as usually is seen only at the arrivals and departures of heads of state. He left with the franc 30 points higher in dollar exchange than yesterday, and with the feeling prevailing in all circles that the way is now clear for a settlement of France's debt to the United States.

The new Ambassador said that this was a time for action rather than words, and that he would do his talking to the point when he reached Washington.

"I feel it a great honor to be entrusted with such an important mission," he said, "and hope for the best."

Mr. Berenger's send-off by the large crowd at the station caused him deep emotion. American Ambassador Herrick, after the French custom, kissed M. Berenger on both cheeks.

President Doumergue, Premier Briand and all members of the cabinet sent representatives. A special delegation of senators and deputies was at the station among them Senator Louis Dausset, a member of the Caillaux debt commission.

Secretary Mellon's statement to the House ways and means committee on the debt question, extracts of which have been published here, is regarded in official circles as most happily coinciding with the departure of M. Berenger, who is accompanied by several experts from the finance ministry. The presence of these experts indicates that settlement of the war debts will be the first care of the new Ambassador.

SEPARATE MOTHERS' AID PLAN IS FAVORED

Opposition Expected to Be Dropped at Resumption of Hearings Today.

Indications yesterday were that fear of the New York social lobby will have removed all opposition to the proposed mothers' pensions legislation embodying the separate agency plan when the House subcommittee resumes hearings today.

Representative Keller, of Minnesota, chairman of the subcommittee, anxious to have the legislation enacted, conferred with Justice Frederick L. Siddons, chairman of the commission on public welfare, which after years of study decided upon a pensions fund administered by the contemplated board of public welfare. Justice Siddons may appear before the subcommittee today.

Reports from the managers of the bill were that local social workers had been brought around to the view of the New York lobbyists that the fund should be administered by a separate agency, despite the fact that the trend here is for consolidation of all charitable agencies. Privately, however, prominent local men and women who have sought the pensions fund for years, made known that by separate agency plan did not reflect their real view.

Vacuum Oil Co. Asks That Suit Be Quashed

The Vacuum Oil Co. of New York, which was sued for $500,000 damages for alleged libel by the Penn Oil Co. of Arlington, Va., filed a motion yesterday in circuit court through its counsel, William E. Leahy, to quash the service made upon J. Z. Walker.

Walker states in an affidavit that he is manager for the business of the Standard Oil Co. in this city and that the Standard handles the products of the Vacuum Co. and that he is in no way connected with the Vacuum Co. It also contended that the Vacuum Co. is a foreign corporation and can not be sued in the district.

TAX RATES ACTION DEFERRED AWAITING MINORITY PROGRAM

Announcement of Democratic Proposal Holds Up Senate Committee's Work.

STRAIGHT PARTY VOTE EXPECTED ON SOME

Aid of Insurgents Is to Be Sought, However, for Surtax Increase.

(By the Associated Press.) All rate schedules in the House tax reduction bill were passed over yesterday by the Senate finance committee for future consideration when Democratic members made it known that they expected to present a complete substitute program. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the committee, later called a conference of the minority members and announced afterwards that the substitute schedules would be prepared and presented to the committee by Saturday.

Going rapidly through other provisions of the bill yesterday, the committee accepted many of the technical administrative changes voted by the House. This completed work on the bill except for the rate schedules and the question of publicity of income-tax returns.

On these vital sections, straight-out party votes are predicted in the committee where Republicans, who have announced general approval of the House rates, have a majority of 10 to 7. Republicans have a somewhat similar majority in the Senate as a whole, but the Democrats are counting on considerable support from insurgent Republican members which enabled them two years ago to write their provisions into the bill.

Favors Surtax Increase.

While no indication of the Democratic program has been given, Senator Simmons is known to favor an increase in the maximum surtax from 20 per cent, as voted by the House, to at least 25 per cent. The Democratic ranks are divided, however, on the proposal for continued publicity of income-tax returns.

The minority members of the committee have generally expressed favor toward the normal income tax rates in the House bill, as well as the increased personal exemption, but were, along with the inheritance and gift taxes, and all of the miscellaneous schedules, were passed over by the committee, pending the completion of the Democratic program.

HOOPER APPROVES WHITE RADIO BILL BEFORE COMMITTEE

Navy and Coast Guard Heads, Manufacturers and Phone Experts Also Assent.

CONTROL IS NECESSARY TO AVOID CHAOS, HE SAYS

Danger of Monopoly Scouted; Possible Censorship Foreseen by Author.

(By the Associated Press.) The White bill, to provide for control of the radio industry, was endorsed yesterday before the House merchant marine committee by Secretary Hoover and other members of the Commerce Department, officers of the navy and coast guard and representatives of radio and telephone organizations.

The bill would give the Secretary of Commerce administrative charge of radio and would establish a commission of nine to pass on applications for licenses and perform other similar functions.

Asserting that government control was necessary to prevent chaos in the air, Secretary Hoover testified that the measure was the result of two years' study and seemed to meet, as nearly as possible, the problem of regulating the air. He contended that no one person, "wise enough" to decide which city, company or individual should have the right to a certain wave length in a region. With the commission recommending or disapproving petitions, he pointed out, disappointed applicants would have the right of appeal to the courts.

Sees No Danger of Monopoly.

Solicitor Davis of the Commerce Department, in response to questions having to do with the provisions in the bill against monopoly, testified that there could be no vested interests in broadcasting and that there was no danger of monopoly.

Desirable censorship of radio programs was discussed and Representative White, of Maine, author of the bill, observed that some day it might be necessary to determine which should have priority on a given wave length, a church service or a jazz concert.

The bill was approved in principle by Capt. McLean, chief of the naval radio service; Lieut. E. M. Webster, of the coast guard; John Nicholson, of the shipping board; William Brown, of the Radio Corporation of America; W. E. Harkness, of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

RAINEY AND HULL FIGHT SETTLEMENT WITH ITALY

FAVOR WAITING 10 YEARS

(By the Associated Press.) Approval by the House ways and means committee yesterday of war debt settlements negotiated since the last Congress was coupled with an announcement by two Democratic committee members that they would oppose acceptance of the Italian settlement on the House floor.

These two, Representatives Rainey, of Illinois, and Hull, of Tennessee, based their opposition to the Italian settlement on the ground that a dictatorship was not a sufficiently stable form of government to guarantee a contract extending over more than half a century.

Holding that this form of government existed in Italy at present, they argued that it was ill advised to accept a settlement calling for the major part of the payment in the later years of the contract period. Both favored postponement of an agreement for ten years, with Italy keeping up interest payments during that period at the rate specified in the pending settlement. At the end of ten years, they felt, the stability of the Italian government could be more definitely determined.

Besides the Italian settlement, other agreements approved were those with Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Estonia and Roumania. Chairman Rainey of the committee said a resolution authorizing acceptance of all of these settlements would be called up in the House Tuesday.

Deliberations of the committee were in executive session, but it is known that Mr. Rainey vigorously opposed the Italian settlement at the meeting and that Representative Crisp, Democrat, Georgia, a member of the debt commission, warmly defended the action of the committee.

$50,000 IS GRANTED FOR ARMS CONFEREES

Technical Personnel Is Being Chosen for Meeting at Geneva.

(By the Associated Press.) Appropriation of $50,000 to defray expenses of American delegates to the preparatory disarmament conference to be held at Geneva was unanimously recommended to the House yesterday by its foreign affairs committee in compliance with a request from President Coolidge.

The administration's plans for participation in the discussion, meanwhile, were pressed forward, Secretary Kellogg conferring with Secretary Davis, of the War Department, and presumably getting in touch with Secretary Wilbur respecting the selection of army and navy technical personnel, that will aid the American delegation.

It appears possible that the army and navy officers will be selected from among either the present military staffs at European capitals or from men who recently have had related experience. The knowledge of foreign languages also is being considered in making selections.

Representatives Guests Of West Virginians

Four members of Congress, accompanied by their wives, were guests of honor last night at the first meeting of the year of the West Virginia society, at Fourteenth and Kenyon streets northwest. They were Representatives Carl G. Bachman, Frank L. Bowman, John M. Wolverson and J. Alfred Taylor.

Approximately 400 persons attended the meeting, at which C. M. Shinn, president, presided. A musical and literary program was followed by dancing. The following committee to take charge of an annual banquet in February was announced: Representative Bowman, chairman; Col. J. William DeGrange, W. E. Hoffmann, J. L. Bate-man, P. M. Appell, Luke Ollis and W. C. Heffner.

Civil Service League Heads See President

Representatives of the Civil Service league called upon President Coolidge yesterday and presented to him matters which they consider of "great importance" concerning the personnel of the government. They refused to divulge the subjects of their conference, but declared that the President had listened attentively.

Dr. Eliery C. Stowell, president of the league; Mrs. Lyman B. Swornsted, vice president, and Dr. Charles E. Hill were the delegation.

PROPAGANDA INQUIRY REFUSED BY SENATE BY VOTE OF 54 TO 16

Senator Reed's Move Fails on Floor After Denial by the Committee.

BALLOT IS HELD TEST OF COURT FIGHT POWER

Opposition Admits Inability to Muster Enough to Block Acceptance of Plan.

(By the Associated Press.) The Senate refused yesterday, 54 to 16, to order an investigation into propaganda in favor of approval of the world court adherence resolution and the Italian and other foreign debt settlements.

Such an inquiry was urged vigorously by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who, after losing the preliminary skirmish in the foreign relations committee, 8 to 3, carried his fight to the floor of the Senate.

Vote Regarded as Test.

In some quarters the vote on the Reed resolution was regarded as a fair test of strength on the world court issue. The 54 votes cast against the resolution exceeded by 7 a two-thirds majority which must be mustered to put through the measure for American adherence to the court.

Proponents of adherence said the opposition had mustered maximum strength on the ballot. Opposition leaders denied this, saying that on the final test they would muster from 18 to 20 votes, but they conceded that this would be short of the number necessary to block favorable action.

Asks Investigation.

Senator Reed was the only senator to argue for his resolution, and there were no speeches in opposition.

Declaring there need be no rush to act on the court proposal, Senator Reed argued that the Senate first should ascertain the origin of the propaganda circulated for this proposition and for ratification of the foreign debt settlements.

He said he wanted to know whether the "international bankers" were responsible for the propaganda and whether they were seeking to make their own loans abroad more secure.

TWO SONGSTERS DISAGREE.

In their desire to have the United States become a member of the league of nations Senators Swanson, of Virginia, and Bruce, of Maryland, are in blissful and total accord, as befits Democrats of neighboring States. The perfect union of their desires is illustrated by these extracts from their speeches in the Senate on the international court:

Mr. Swanson—I can not refrain from giving expression to my own individual views and say that the league of nations today is the most potential factor in the world working for world peace and betterment, that it is gaining daily in influence and power, and that the day will ultimately come when the United States will desire and be compelled to become a member.

Mr. Bruce—Ever since the league of nations was established I have been entirely in sympathy with it. The more readily the features of the league of nations can be seen in the face of the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge world court, the better I like the child. . . . In supporting the pending resolution I am, of course, entirely conscious of the degree to which it falls short of committing us to the full extent of what I believe to be our international duty. Nothing, in my judgment, can do that except membership in the league of nations.

"Two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one"—but soft, Horatio! Is there a rift within the lute twanged by these melodious sons of Virginia and Maryland? Does there not strike the ear a confused note, growing into discord, when they attempt to describe the vestibule of the temple of their dreams, the league court?

Mr. Swanson—The court is an institution absolutely distinct from the league. It derives its power from its own statute and not the covenant of the league.

Mr. Bruce—It is only as an auxiliary of the league, empowered to render decisions and advisory opinions which the league has the organs to carry into effect, that the world court dilates to its full measure of dignity and utility.

Surely, when minstrels join in moving siren songs, for the purpose of drawing mankind into the bonds of harmony with them, they should not strike such false and conflicting notes. Hark! Again that jarring sound:

Mr. Swanson—As previously stated, these opinions are not binding when given.

Mr. Bruce—The court can enter judgments in international controversies and render advisory opinions at the request of the council or assembly of the league which command implicit obedience or unimurming acquiescence.

What shall be thought of serenaders who, beginning with dulcet tones more rarely melodious than those of blended catgut and voluptuous flute, gradually rend the air with ear-splitting discords? Birds in their little nests agree; why can not league senators? But no; again the dreadful clash:

Mr. Swanson—The United States would assume no new embarrassments, create no new conditions affecting the Monroe doctrine by adherence to the permanent court of international justice.

Mr. Bruce—I, at least, was not surprised, a few days ago, when Chile was said to have filed a protest with the secretary general of the league, charging that Gen. Pershing was unduly dilatory in fixing the date for the plebiscite in the Tacna-Arica controversy. I do not doubt that the time will come when the Latin communities of this hemisphere will be far more disposed to look to the league of nations than to the Monroe doctrine for their security.

What is there in this world court proposal which transforms troubadours into the similitude of yowling creatures of the night? Here are two perfectly respectable songsters, beginning with a rhapsody of passion for the league, and ending in total disagreement and intestine shock.

Mr. Swanson says the court is absolutely distinct from the league and derives no power from the covenant. Mr. Bruce says the court is great only when it is the auxiliary of the league.

Mr. Swanson says that the court's opinions are not binding. Mr. Bruce says they command unimurming acquiescence.

Mr. Swanson says the United States will not add to its embarrassments respecting the Monroe doctrine by joining the court. Mr. Bruce says the Latin communities are already preferring the league to the Monroe doctrine.

sic disagree? Is it not incumbent upon public entertainers to rehearse their duets thoroughly before springing them upon the audience?

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

The tariff commission was created by the Democratic majority to "remove the tariff from politics" and establish a "nonpartisan commission." The original act of 1916 provided that the members should be divided equally between the two leading political parties. President Wilson appointed three Democrats presumed to be low tariff advocates, or free traders; two progressives, who were in sympathy with a low tariff; and one Republican, or real protectionist.

The work of the commission was designed to be the investigation of facts for the benefit of Congress. These investigations were supposed to be nonpartisan; but they were not. Many documents prepared and printed by the commission were manifestly leaning against protection and in favor of free trade or a low tariff. It was not a nonpartisan establishment, for the simple reason that such an organization with its members favoring either a low or a protective tariff, can not be nonpartisan. This commission was utilized, as far as possible within the theory of the law, for the benefit of those who framed and enacted the 1913 tariff.

When the result of the election of 1920 changed the political complexion of the resident in the White House, the President appointed three protectionists as soon as vacancies occurred.

The work of the tariff commission in 1921 and 1922 consisted largely of giving information to the protectionists in the preparation of the emergency and Fordney-McCumber tariffs. This information was to help frame a protection measure. The commission was not strictly nonpartisan. It could not be. It did in 1921 and 1922 precisely what its predecessor had done—help frame a tariff for the party in power.

Now, because the commission does what a previous commission did, the low tariff advocates want the commission investigated and abolished because it is not "an investigating commission and nonpartisan," but a partisan establishment, leaning toward protection.

All of which demonstrates that a tariff commission composed of an equal number of protectionists and low tariff members can not, in the nature of things, be nonpartisan, for the tariff is a political question, despite opinions to the contrary. Now that the 1922 law gives the commission authority to inform the President what appears to be the right sort of rates to impose, and gives the President authority to raise or lower rates within limits, the commission is not a fact-finding and nonpartisan establishment, but a political establishment.

Comptroller General McCarl has thrown a monkey wrench into the plans of the Arlington Memorial bridge commission by holding that the contracts for architectural and engineering services entered into by the commission are not authorized "under the law." The result may be that work on this long-delayed improvement to the National Capital will be postponed indefinitely. The comptroller general, in voicing his objections, declares that the allowances under the contract for traveling and subsistence are more generous than could be granted to employees of the United States. Other objections are made. Obviously Col. Sherrill should have had legal advice in drawing up the contract.

PLAYING A "SYSTEM."

It is an axiom of gamblers that "you can not win where you can not lose," the truth of which can not be denied. If it were otherwise, Capt. Arthur de Courcy Bower, one time a member of the British artillery and famous as the "man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo," would not have died the other day in a cheap lodging house in London, penniless and alone. Many years ago Bower appeared at the golden palace of chance in the little principality of Monaco, where he electrified the gaming world by his enormous winnings at roulette. In one afternoon he won $150,000, and his total gains exceeded $1,000,000. It was reported that his success in playing the wheel was due to a "system" that he had perfected, but the Englishman afterward denied that his plan had anything to do with his winnings. He insisted that it was just "Lady Luck" who lavished her smiles upon him. To confirm this, it is said, he tossed 10,000 francs, when a franc was worth 20 cents, upon a single number, 27, and it won, which made him $72,000 richer. But later the Britisher returned to Monte Carlo, and with three assistants, played his "system." For hours the play went against him. There was something wrong with it. It didn't work. Then his luck returned, and his winnings began to pile up. He left the tables $375,000 to the good, and eventually won more than $1,250,000. His "system" was tried by others, but it failed to work. They did not have his luck; nor did he, years afterward, when once more he wooed the fickle goddess.

A few days ago a man was found in a hospital in Baltimore, unable to pay for the attention he needed in his illness. A year ago he was "beating" the races by using a "system." His winnings reached nearly $100,000. Then the "system" went wrong, and he lost all he had won.

"Mike" Dwyer used to win great sums on the races, and it was thought he had a "system." The truth was that Dwyer simply wagered on his opinion. He died "broke." "Pittsburgh Phil" was probably the most successful player of the races the American turf has ever known. He accumulated a fortune, but he depended for his success on an almost uncanny judgment. He had extraordinary nerve, but the strain was so great that he died comparatively a young man.

"You can not win where you can not lose," is as true today as it ever was.

A New Jersey producer of women's hosiery has found that the average foot of woman is getting bigger. He gives figures to show that, in five years, the average size of stocking feet has grown until it now reaches 9 1/2, and is rapidly approaching 10. In another generation, he predicts, there will be little difference in the length of feet of the sexes. The increasing indulgence of women in athletics is given as the cause of the growth of their feet. We can appreciate what it will mean in the future to have a woman land on one "with both feet."

Representatives of the anthracite miners and operators are still at loggerheads over terms of settlement of the coal strike. The big point at issue is arbitration, the operators insisting that any agreement must provide for arbitration and the miners as stubbornly opposing it. Yet the miners, it is reported, would welcome intervention by the government. If these reports are true the attitude of the miners is inconsistent, for intervention by the government would mean eventual arbitration.

RADIO CONTROL.

Control of radio broadcasting is under consideration in Congress. To the uninitiated it would naturally appear that legislation of this character would emanate from the committees on commerce, but owing to the close relationship between radio communication and navigation, the pending bill was referred to the committee on merchant marine and fisheries. It was to that committee that Mr. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, explained the scope and purposes of the bill which has the approval of his department. Mr. Hoover explained that the primary condition which makes legislation necessary is the congestion in broadcasting. Radio is an infant industry. But it is a lusty youngster, and it is growing rapidly. Too rapidly, in fact, as its foster father, the Department of Commerce, is unable to supply the necessary equipment to meet the expanding needs of the prodigious infant.

There are 536 broadcasting stations, which must operate on a total of 89 wave lengths. There are no more in the broadcasting band. Many of these wave lengths are below effective use. "The problem has been to divide the 89 wave lengths among more than 500 stations, which means an average of over six stations to each wave length," said Mr. Hoover. "Satisfactory division has been a mathematical impossibility. Only by time division, power limitation, geographical separation and other expedients has it been possible to maintain any order at all in the ether." The Secretary declared that it was essential in discussing the pending bill that three facts be taken as settled: First, that radio legislation is absolutely and immediately essential if chaos is to be avoided in radio communication; second, that the bill has already received substantial approval, and third, that the measure has the approbation of the radio industry and the radio public.

The bill asserts and assumes jurisdiction in the Federal government over all phases of radio communication in so far as such communication constitutes or affects foreign or interstate commerce. It provides an administrative organization by which Federal control is so exercised, and it retains complete control of all channels of radio communication.

In view of the fact that the same committee at the last session of Congress the chances are that the final outcome of the efforts of the merchant marine and fisheries committee will be the enactment of legislation which will give to the government, through the Department of Commerce, definite and specific jurisdiction over all matters connected with broadcasting through the ether.

Whenever legislation is proposed for the benefit of the people, some one arises and "offers an amendment." Nearly all the States have laws which provide for the care and support of mothers who have children depending upon their labor for the necessities of life. Similar legislation has been proposed for the District, and it looked for a time as though the proposal would result in the enactment of a satisfactory law. But just when the mothers thought their pensions were assured, comes the man with the amendment, and another with a substitute. There will be delays, and it will be but a repetition of history if the delay should defeat legislation in this Congress. It is another case of a multitude of cooks spoiling the broth.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today
 By Will Rogers

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by Senator Jim Wadsworth, of New York. He told it to me in his office in Washington. He is the big Republican Leader of New York. We get on pretty good as he is an old Cattleman. He owned a big ranch in the Panhandle of Texas, the J. A.'s of Clarendon, and used to ship steers to his New York farm in the Genesee valley and fatten them. Well, it was a pleasure to meet a Senator and talk Cattle instead of Politics. Freight rates go so high it wouldn't pay, so you see even big Republican Senators don't get everything they want.

I was telling Mr. Wadsworth about talking to President Coolidge and about him putting a couple of good ones over on me. Then the Senator told me a good Coolidge story. When Coolidge delivered his first message to Congress, why the Galleries were packed and Mrs. Wadsworth gave up her seat to an old friend and she had to stand up through the whole speech, which was very long. That night there was a big reception at the White House. When Mrs. Wadsworth shook hands with the President she said, "I enjoyed your speech very much this afternoon, Mr. President. It was wonderful, and when I tell you that I had to stand up through it all, and still enjoyed it, I consider that some compliment."

Mr. Coolidge replied, "Yes, I stood up myself."

Senator Jim told me another one I will tell you some time. "You remember the one, James, about the woman you took in to see Mr. Coolidge?" Does Mrs. Wadsworth know about that one?"

That's Different.

Atchison Globe: An Atchison man owns considerable corn and a herd of turkeys. He blames the government for the low price of corn, but not for the high price of turkeys.

Women and Watches.

Baltimore Sun: Smart ladies in London who wear watches as buttons on their jackets are not running any serious danger. The exhibition of a timepiece frankly to one's infatuated escort is not going to hasten his departure or create new difficulties over one's late arrival. But the stunt of wearing a watch tucked into a garter just above the knee is not an encouragement to accurate time keeping. Such chronometers, even in this tolerant age, are bound to be thought a little fast.

Brooklyn Eagle: Bryn Mawr girls are told by their professor of Sociology that New Yorkers born in 2000 A. D. will have a chance of living 200 years or more. But after a reflective lighting of her cigarette each student is likely to say that she has no interest at all in babies that are so far off. Youth is always calous to remote possibilities.

Military Glory.

Columbus Dispatch: The chances for military service seem so remote, with the Old World utterly weary, that probably the best way for a resident of New York to get glory out of the service would be to resign on account of the Mitchell verdict and send a copy of it to the newspapers.

New York Fogs.

New York Times: Monday and yesterday New York had a continuous fog which, if not quite up to the best London standard, was dense enough to show what our city will do in the way of fogs if ever it comes to the burning of soft coal exclusively, and if it burns it, as London has been in the habit of doing, in ways that render any close approach to perfect combustion impossible.

The coal strike has led here, of necessity, to a relaxation of our smoke ordinances, and the natural result is that many New Yorkers are burning soft coal as skillfully, perhaps, as their facilities and knowledge permit, but not so well as to avoid the production of a lot of smoke. That provides a multitude of floating carbon particles around which fog can condense in larger drops, and that is what has made these two days so dark and so depressing to those who are affected by the lack of sunshine.

Bathbats in the West.

Hutchinson News: It was not until after the civil war that bathbats made their appearance west of the Mississippi river. In fact, it may be stated that up to a few years ago any man who desired a weekly bath went to the barber shop downtown on Saturday night. The average family merely brought the washbasin into the kitchen, and filling it with water heated in a kettle, arranged

Learning Backward

By GLENN FRANK

It may be that children exist for the purpose of educating their parents.

I know, at any rate, that I am learning a lot about education from my 7-year-old son.

During the last year I have seen most of the principles of the so-called "new education" illustrated and justified in the unguided operations of my son's mind.

One incident will show what I mean.

I took him to a good observation post from which we saw the total eclipse of the sun last winter. I could not have bribed him to study astronomy a month before, but on the way home, he said: "Next year, when I have my birthday party, would you mind having an astronomer instead of a magician to entertain the boys? He could tell us all about these eclipses and things like that."

I have read most of the important books on the newer educational theory. I have read that we go from interest to knowledge rather than from knowledge to interest, that we normally become interested in the whole of a thing before we become interested in its parts; in short, that we learn backward instead of forward. But all this remained rather abstract theory in my mind until I saw it in operation in my own son's mind.

If we were to undertake to teach baseball, let us say, to a seven-year-old boy, by the teaching methods still in use in many schools and colleges, this is the way we would go about it:

We would ask him to memorize the biographies of the great players of baseball, past and present. Then we would ask him to pass an examination on the lives of Christy Mathewson, Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner, Babe Ruth and others.

We would then ask him to make a study of the various kinds of wood from which bats are made, the countries from which the woods came, and so on.

We would instruct him regarding the principle of the gyroscope involved in throwing a curve and the law of falling bodies involved in throwing a drop. And so on and so on.

All this on the theory, apparently, that when he had mastered the details, he would suddenly be consumed by a passionate interest in the game. But by watching one boy for one year, it becomes clear that the way to awaken his interest in baseball is to take him to a big league game, allow him to feel the thrill of the game, and to yell himself hoarse for his hero. After that he will sit up all night listening to explanations of details.

Some day we may reorganize education all the way from kindergarten to university upon the simple principle that we become interested in the whole of things before we become interested in the parts, that we learn backward instead of forward.

While we are waiting for the educators to catch up with the children, we shall do well, I think, to interest our children in as many large human situations and problems as possible. Interest in detailed knowledge will take care of itself.

a parade of the members of the family for the bath. Those older people, who wear wide looks and gray hairs, if they tell the truth, will admit that when they were young their bathing was done in the creek, or at the pump, or in the washbasin, and that a more frequent bath than once a week was considered un-American.

Legal Status of the Cat.

Times, London: In the high court of justice the cats' magna charta has been signed and sealed provisionally at all events. The legal status of the cat was never clearly established, though there has been no doubt about the position in law of his traditional enemy, the dog. Now the judges have decided that the cat has equal rights with the dog—and, be it noted, equal responsibilities. Indeed, the cat is permitted to have greater scope than the dog to indulge his wayward propensities. Cats, the judges very rightly said, regarded birds as their natural prey, but they did not cease thereby to be tame animals. Thus the owner, who did not know that his cat, instead of snatching sparrows in the moonlight hedges, was seizing pigeons and buntans in a neighbor's yard, was held not to be liable for the first offense of puss. The real result of the case is that cats have great privileges both by day and night, but they must not become habitual criminals. Otherwise their owners must become aware of their habits, and must be made liable for their depredations.

Automobile Crisis in Germany.
 Vossische Zeitung, Berlin: At the opening of the national exhibition of the German automobile industry some fears were expressed regarding the increasing inflow of foreign makes into the country. During the last year Germany spent 100,000,000 gold marks for the purchase of foreign built automobiles. These 100,000,000 marks are not only a terrible blow to our trade balance, but they also constitute an attack against the German working man, because they were literally taken from him and given to for-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Government Hotel Prices.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The much-discussed matter of the Government Plaza hotels is again in the limelight.

It has been stated that the prices charged by the government hotels are less than those charged by other places in the city. The fact is that the prices asked for a small single room and two meals per day at the government hotels is $50 per month, which, after the price of lunch is added, makes the government clerk's expense for board and room not less than $60 per month. If it be true that this is less than is charged anywhere else in Washington, then this is a sad commentary on conditions in our city. The girl clerk on a salary of $1,140 to $1,500 per annum should not be compelled to pay out more than two-thirds of her salary for board and room. This is America, the land of the free!

The matter of the parkway on the Union station plaza is again mentioned. I can not feel that the parkway is important as compared with the fact that if the government hotels are closed, many government clerks may be compelled to work on partially empty stomachs, as they will not be able to afford the prices charged for food in the city, and the advanced prices which will probably be charged for rooms.

Let our congressmen, who recently received a large increase in their own salaries, ponder the question of whether they owe any consideration to the faithful women clerks, who work so hard and conscientiously for barely living wages. Would they wish their own daughters in a similar position?

E. R. TRELLINGER.
 Washington, Dec. 29.

THE BONUS IN BUSINESS.

A growing number of business concerns are finding value in bonus systems for employees, says Thrift. Of a large number of employers of office labor recently surveyed they were unanimous in their reports that a financial reward for more efficient work had proved satisfactory and had become part of the employing organization's permanent system.

The opportunity of earning a little more money by working harder or more carefully or more intelligently has a strong appeal to workers. It is not the increased earnings that really makes the appeal as much as it is the glow of anticipation and expectancy.

One of the drawbacks of the straight salary system lies in the fact that the element of anticipation is entirely eliminated. The worker knows exactly what he may expect today, tomorrow and next month. Ways the feeling of expectancy. Each day brings a zest for work due to the possibility of greater reward, a condition that can not be expected to exist where such uncertainty is lacking.

designers. It is by this means that the number of unemployed has increased in our country. It is calculated that for every car purchased abroad a German worker, with his wife and children, goes without bread for a year. For this reason the state, the people, and the automobile industry must get together and cooperate so as to increase the demand for German made cars.

Feminine charm and daintiness are always enhanced by filmy negligees, whether simple or elaborate. In both of these types it is hard to conceive any of more beauty or greater value than these in the January Sale, three of which are sketched.

Among the many exquisite and delightfully becoming negligees, which the beginning of a new season brings to our section, is the attractive boudoir coat of satin with collar, cuffs and pockets trimmed with puffing.

NATIONAL

George C. Tyler brings the notable all-star "Close Quarters" to the National next week. He will present a new A. E. Thomas play at the old pre-war scale of prices. With Elsie Ferguson, Margaret Lawrence, Wallace Eddinger, Effie Shannon, Bruce McRae, Geoffrey Kerr and Frederick Worlock in the cast, the management of the National expects a series of brilliant audiences. Mr. Tyler proved, in the cases of "The Rivals" and "She Stoops to Conquer," that he is a wizard in the assembly of all-star casts.

"Close Quarters," while its author credits Alexander Dumas, fils, "Le Demi-Monde" as the basis for his play, is a comedy with its scenes laid in the present and its characters picturing the social types of today. The Thomas play has its basis alone in the Dumas opus, which is annually one of the features of the Comedy Française repertoire, but is declared to be entirely modern both in scene and character.

COLUMBIA

Gloria Swanson in her latest starring production, "Stage Struck," which opened its first Washington engagement last Sunday afternoon at Loew's Columbia, has achieved such an emphatic hit in this hilarious romance of flappings and footlights that it is possible that the engagement of this latest Paramount production for Miss Swanson will be extended for another week, beginning next Sunday afternoon.

"Stage Struck" marks Miss Swanson's crowning achievement, not only as a character star but as a comedienne. In this rollicking romantic comedy of an imaginative small-town waitress who vaguely dreamed of fame and fortune on the stage, only to be startled into challenging the supremacy of a real leading lady when the latter completely fascinated the waitress' beau, Miss Swanson rises to heights of funmaking that few of her admirers believed possible.

Superbly directed by Allan Dwan and with many of its more gorgeous scenes in natural colors, via the technicolor process, "Stage Struck" is based on a story by Frank R. Adams and utilizes the services of a supporting cast that includes Gertrude Astor, Ford Sterling, Lawrence Grey and others. It also reveals some of the most fascinating and beautiful gowns the camera has ever pictured, which Miss Swanson wears with her inimitable charm and grace. The latest of Tuxedo comedies, "Cleaning Up," the International News Reel pictures, and a delightful overture and atmospheric musical score are additional appealing features of the program.

TIVOLI

Leatrice Joy will be the pictured star of the bill announced for the first two days of next week at Crandall's Tivoli theater, beginning Sunday afternoon at 3, in Cecil B. De Mille's production of "Hell's Highway." The comedy will be "Strong For Love" and added auxiliaries will include new issues of the Pathe Review and Aesop Fables.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at the Tivoli Warner Baxter will be seen in "The Best People," a screen version of Avery Hopwood's stage hit. The comedy will be supplied by "Our Gang" in Hal Roach's two-reel funfest, "Your Own Backyard." An added attraction will be a new release of the pithy and popular "Topics of the Day."

Dorothy Revier, Ford Sterling, Tom Ricketts, Robert Agnew, Cissie Fitzgerald and Ethel Wales are the foremost members of the cast to be seen on the Tivoli's screen Thursday and Friday of next week in Exhibitors Film Exchange's release of "Steppin' Out." Mack Sennett's two-reel comedy "Over Thereabouts" will be the added laugh-maker and a scenic study of "Volendam" also will be shown.

Jack Holt and Billie Dove are the principal members of the cast to be seen in James Oliver Curwood's "The Ancient Highway" at the Tivoli on Saturday of next week. Neal Burns in "My Swede" will supply the comedy, and a new Lyman H. Howe "Hodge Podge" will round out the entertainment.

THE AUDITORIUM

The second appearance in person of Roxy and his Gang in Washington is on January 9 and 10, when four top performances will be staged at the Washington auditorium. This time "The Gang" comes under the auspices of the National Sanatorium for Tuberculous Children, Inc., under the management of Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman. Brig. Gen. Lloyd M. Brett, U. S. A., is president of the organization whose directors include Representative Clyde M. Kelly, of Pennsylvania; Hon. James W. Good, and many others known to Washington.

Roxy's Gang will include practically all those he brought to Washington by his previous appearance, Gamby, Doug, Margie and the rest. In addition to the performances at the auditorium the gang will appear at Walter Reed hospital, the United States Naval hospital and St. Elizabeth's.

Roxy has telegraphed that he is particularly happy to return to Washington because the occasion marks the opening of a campaign throughout the United States to establish and maintain a hospital and school for tuberculous children. The plan of raising funds through entertainments in various cities will be followed throughout, and Washington was selected as the opening city in order to emphasize the national character of the project. Tickets are on sale at all hotel news stands. There will be a special matinee for children at half prices.

POLI

The new or third "Vanities" which has been more aptly termed by Producer Earl Carroll as the Night Club Edition is a novelty and a girly-girl show.

This new edition of the Earl Carroll "Vanities" will open Sunday night, January 10, with a popular-priced matinee on Thursday and the regular Saturday matinee at Poli's theater.

During the progress of the revue the girls not only come down and sing in the audience, but they go up and down the aisles, practically enter into your family conversation, and deliver special "Vanities" editions of The Washington Post.

The front rows of seats have been removed and in their places are substituted tables and chairs such as one would find at a first-class night club. Lester Allen, Allyn King, Charlie Irwin, Jack Norton, Dave Chasen, Clifford Kourke, Nellie Brown, Eileen Carmody, Irene Swor, Marjorie Peterson and an array of others are in the cast.

To further carry out the night club, the orchestra is no longer in its accustomed place, but on a specially built platform on the left side of the theater high up over the heads of the audience. Where the orchestra pit ordinarily was is a grand stair case effect with a platform midway in height between the stage and the auditorium floor level. This is where the dancing takes place prior to the first act and during the intermission.

METROPOLITAN

Leon Errol, recent star of the "Follies" and "Sally," with "Louie the Fourteenth" registered as his current hit, will make his debut as an individual star of the silver sheet at Crandall's Metropolitan theater next week, beginning Sunday afternoon at 3, in First National's production of "Clothes Make the Pirate."

A new comedy subject will be shown in the new feature of the Metropolitan World Survey and added short reels of diversified interest. The Metropolitan Symphony, under the conductorship of Daniel Breckin, will contribute another delightful musical setting for the pictured subjects and will also be heard in a special concert overture number.

Among the distinguished players who add to the luster of "Clothes Make the Pirate" may be mentioned Dorothy Gish, James Rennie, Nita Naldi, Tully Marshall and George Marion, all artists of the highest rank. Edna Murphy, one of the younger beauties of the silent drama, also is conspicuously cast and performs her tasks in most charming fashion.

The first Washington presentations of "Clothes Make the Pirate" at the Metropolitan next week will be embellished with an atmospheric prelude that will add to the effectiveness of the scenes that follow. Errol in this film is cast as a timid little tailor, who becomes a raging buccaneer.

RIALTO

Ralph Lewis, remembered for his performance in "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance," plays the star role in "The Last Edition," which is the feature picture at the Rialto next week, beginning Sunday. "The Last Edition" was directed by Emory Johnson.

The fertile field of newspaperdom is the setting for this picture. Almost everybody is interested in the roaring presses, the clicking telegraph wires and the hourly drama of a newspaper office.

While a great city sleeps and honest people are supposed to be in bed, the action of this dynamic drama takes place. The newspaper never sleeps. Its mind must be always on the alert, its reporters constantly on the lookout for the big story that may "break" at any minute. Adventurous lives they lead, these newspaper men, and they come in contact with a hundred dramas every day. Out of such material has Emory Johnson fashioned his story of "The Last Edition."

AMBASSADOR

Leon Errol will be seen in "Clothes Make the Pirate" at Crandall's Ambassador theater the first three days of next week, beginning Sunday afternoon at 3. The supplementary offerings will include a new Aesop Fable and other abbreviated camera subjects.

On Wednesday and Thursday of next week Leatrice Joy will be seen in "Hell's Highway." The comedy will be furnished by the genial group pictured in Mack Sennett's "Butter Fingers."

"The Tower of Lies," directed by Victor Seastrom, will be the chief feature at the Ambassador on Friday only of next week, with Lon Chaney and Norma Shearer. Ralph Graves will contribute the comedy as star of Mack Sennett's "Hurricane Doctor."

On Saturday of next week, Monte Blue, Louise Fazenda and Willard Louis will be the pictured luminaries on the Ambassador's screen in "Hogan's Alley." Walter Hiers will be the comic in "Hot Doggie," and the bill will be completed by the first installment of the new chapter play, "The Green Archer."

Play Here For First Time. "Tarnish," a play, will be shown to Washington for the first time by the Thomas Herbert Stock company at the Wardman Park theater next week.

This character drama in three acts was written by Gilbert Emery. The story deals with the mooted question of the double standard of morals.

Ruth Harrison will take the leading role of "Lettitia," and Parker Pennington will play the leading man. Thomas Herbert will play the second leading man's role in the production.

PRESIDENT

"Uncle Sam's Follies of 1926," is an even better show than last year's, according to the verdict of the hundreds of theater goers who have already been to the President theater to greet the government thespians in their latest effort.

A well-lanced show run off with the snap and precision of a Ziegfeld production, this year's follies promises to attract throngs to the new President for the remainder of the week. Its popularity already has caused the management to take into consideration the staging of the show through another week. A definite decision will be made in the next day or so.

The beauty of the girls and the originality of the costumes and scenic effects has been a subject of general discussion. The handsome costumes worn in the Charleston number, said to be the snappiest seen on any local stage this year, are already the talk of the town. The Bowery number, which has kept the audiences in a continual uproar, is another outstanding feature.

Mulroose, Keuhling and Bishop, that ever-popular dance trio, are at their best appearing in a number of scenes and demonstrating their extreme versatility. Dick Nash, who last year made his debut as the local "Will Rogers," demonstrated this time that he is also somewhat of an acrobat, a dancer and a monologist. Ripp and Maxwell, leading one of the most beautiful numbers on the program, do a delightful tango to the strains of the ever-popular Spanish Village orchestra, under the leadership of Frank Tillmann. There is a soloist, Everett Hafell, who added materially to its popularity. Goldie Grainger is the same attractive prima donna of old. Margaret Little has won a place in the hearts of local theater goers as she has in the hearts of the national audience. Harlan Randall, Helen Dulin, Blanche Lehmann, Ruth McClelland, Ida Belt, Bernard Bailey, Louise Colton, and Olga Posey.

GAYETY

Singing, dancing, yodeling and saxophoning are a few of the many attractive features contributing to the success of Irons & Clamage's "Happy Hooligan," next week's attraction at the Gayety theater. There is a wealth of superior stage settings and modish costumes, together with a capable cast of entertainers and a bevy of flippant flappers to arouse added interest. Andy Martini plays the title role of "Happy Hooligan," and heads the list of entertainers which includes such celebrities as Mabel White, Sid Gold, Lola Pierce and Joe Yule.

To Please the Ladies. To the officials of the Columbia Amusement Co. of New York, owners of the Gayety theater here and producers of the weekly attractions that play at the Gayety, and to Mr. Ira J. La Motte, manager of the Gayety theater, it is gratifying to note the number of ladies and children that attend the daily matinees at the Gayety, and the many at the evening performances. Every attraction that will visit the Gayety this season was produced to please the ladies and children, as well as the men, and it is especially true of the cartoon comedies. Several weeks ago, "Bringing Up Father" (Jiggs and Maggie) visited the Gayety and the attendance of women and children was very large, but this week all records have been broken with the current attraction, "Mutt and Jeff," by Bud Fisher, and next week another famous comic will be featured, "Happy Hooligan." All attractions that visit the Gayety theater have been designed to offer wholesome fun.

EARLE

The Earle theater next week offers one of the finest bills it has ever put upon the boards. The top line act is one that recently played Washington (at the theater of the first class) and the extra added attraction is Kate Smith, favorite of the "Crandall Saturday Nighters."

Among the usual house features employed to embellish the bills at the Earle will be the organ, played by Alexander Arons, featuring the Pilgrims' Chorus from "Tannhauser," by Wagner, and the orchestral overture conducted by Floyd C. Wheeler.

Among the vaudeville attractions to be presented during the week are Bill and Genevieve in "Frills, Thrills and Spills," the Diehl Sisters and MacDonald, in artistic comedy; the Jack Powell sextet, versatile entertainers, and Jane Barber, Broome Jackson in "Nothing Serious—Just Mirth and Melody."

The film play for the week will be a first-run production and many added hits will add to the interest of a splendidly balanced bill. "Meyer Golden's Masterpieces" will be presented by a cast of nine scrupulously selected players and combine song, dance and dialogue.

STRAND

A galaxy of vaudeville acts will be offered at the Strand theater next week commencing Sunday afternoon, headlined by the Kikuta Japs, a worthy congregation of Japanese jugglers, magicians and equilibrists in an exhibition entitled "Oriental Wonder Workers." The extra added feature is a black face comedy act wherein Sam Lamar and Josh Dale present an ethiopian travesty entitled "The Rascals of the South."

Other numbers on the vaudeville program include Stellar Kacey and J. Elwood in a bit of musical comedy entitled "Bits of Broadway," the ultra Diez Monkeys in a series of merry capers, and Eddie Rey, Miriam Conway and Wes Thomas in a mirthful bit of pleasing comedy, "Two Fellows and a Girl."

The feature photoplay brings to the Strand screen Elsie Ferguson, in a dramatic story of love, business and career, "The Unknown Lover."

Subsidiary film features of an interesting and educational nature together with the orchestral numbers under the direction of Arthur J. Manvell will complete the program.

BELASCO

"The Love City" is the play which brings Sessue Hayakawa, motion picture actor, to the American stage. It is a drama of the East and West, of the London smart set, and of China, land of opium dreams, of cruelty, mystery and beauty.

"The Love City" will be presented at the Belasco theater, commencing next Monday, January 11. Sessue Hayakawa plays the role of Chang Lo. Margaret Mower, one of Broadway's loveliest and best known leading women, appears as Tze-shi, and Earle Larimore as Richard Cavendish. Of further interest will be the dancing girls appearing in authentic Chinese dances, especially arranged by Michio Ito.

More People are reading and using Post classified ads every day. The reason? They deliver the goods. Phone Main 4265.

MUTUAL

"The Speed Girls" is next week's attraction at the Mutual.

Ray Read, an eccentric character comedian, and Nellie Nice, a beautiful and gifted comedienne, head the large company.

The chorus is said to be made up of pretty girls who can really sing and dance the musical numbers, and the costuming is reported to be quite out of the ordinary.

Matinees are given daily with Manager Garrison offering many added features to the night performances for the amusement of his patrons.

A Young Wife Learns the Truth!

This True Story Is Based Upon the Disillusionment of Mrs. Crisp As Fully Set Forth in Her Letter Which Appears Further Down This Page

MRS. Irene Crisp of Kawende, Manitoba, gasped in amazement at what she saw. There at ease in the big arm chair sat her husband in deep absorption reading True Story Magazine.

She had never read a copy of True Story in all the nineteen years of her life because she had been led to believe that it was not a refined magazine, that some of the stories in it dealt with things that nice people did not discuss, that in places it was indelicate, if not, indeed, immoral.

And now to find the man she married, dignified, reserved, refined, reading "that awful magazine," True Story. She could scarce believe her eyes.

At her exclamation of shocked amazement he looked up. To her excited remonstrance he gave careful heed. Then he handed her the book as he replied, "My dear! Read every story in this magazine and then prove to me that a single one is immoral. It contains nothing but the experiences of human beings like ourselves and experience is the thing that teaches. If we can learn by the experience of other souls, isn't that much better than having to go through it ourselves?"

The earnest quality of his reply impressed her. Surely if her husband felt that way she must be misinformed. Taking his advice, she read it slowly, critically, thoroughly.

Search as she would she could not find a single sentence or a single word that was in any way objectionable. On the contrary never had she read a collection of such thrillingly delightful stories. Each one rang with truth. Each gave her a new and broader outlook upon life and a new and deeper insight into life. Real people walked through every tale reliving before her eyes the very climaxes of their lives. Each contained a moral so powerfully driven home as never to be forgotten. Never had she been so entertained, so deeply moved, so wonderfully instructed.

Today among all of the two and one half millions of people who read True Story every month there are none more faithful nor more staunch in their support than Mrs. Crisp.

Yet there are still people who believe as this wife and mother once did—people who, because of misinformation or prejudice, look with disapproval on a magazine which they have not taken the time or trouble to read.

This point of view is as unfortunate as it is unjust, since an examination of any issue of True Story Magazine will quickly reveal its true, helpful and inspiring character.

The lessons taught by True Story Magazine touch every problem that human beings have to contend with in their relations with each other.

The Editor
True Story Magazine
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—

Just a letter of appreciation dedicated to your magazine.

I was sixteen when my first lecture was administered for even thinking of reading True Story Magazine. Mother was very severe. Father, more so, and Grandmother backed the both of them up although I'm sure she didn't know a thing about it. The result was that I wouldn't so much as look at a True Story Magazine even on one of the public stands. Three years later, married and settled, I came upon my husband, reading the very magazine I had been taught was absolutely immoral. In the words of the flapper "I jumped all over him." Out of the very depths of his ever present dignity, he replied, "My dear! Read every story in this book and prove to me where one is immoral. It contains nothing but the experiences of ordinary humans like ourselves, and experience is what teaches. If we can learn by the experience of other souls, isn't that much better than having to go through it ourselves?"

After this little speech I didn't think the magazine could be so bad after all, and upon his urging me to do so, I read it. Since then I have been a faithful reader and staunch supporter of True Story, and the bitter experience of others has broadened my mind and softened my heart.

Every issue of True Story is good. Long may it live! Wouldn't my dear Grandmother turn over in her grave if she saw me showing the pictures in it to my two year old daughter?

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Irene Crisp

Whether it be a story of joy or sorrow, of love or hate, of triumph or failure, of devoted self-sacrifice, or of bitter vengeance—it points a lesson that is driven home with unforgettable vividness and dramatic power.

For Example, Take the February Issue

If Betty had listened to the advice of her friends when she got a position as a newspaper reporter, she would never have made the tragic mistake of seeking success at the price of her soul. Her thrilling experience, and her final hard-won triumph, is frankly told by Betty herself under the title, "Heart-Break" in February True Story Magazine.

Then there is the case of Doris. If she had known how easily a young girl may be fooled by men—if she had thought twice before matching her inexperienced, sentimental nature against the cynical cunning of a man of the world—she would have avoided the dangerous situation in which she found herself. Read Doris' own story in "Her Caveman Lover," which appears in the February issue of True Story Magazine.

Or read the startling confession of the man who, emerging from the war, sick in body and mind, his nerves torn to shreds—seeks forgetfulness in drink—only to find that he has driven his wife into the arms of another man. No true-life story that has ever been written holds a more powerful lesson for both men and women.

Yet these are but three of the seventeen big, helpful, inspiring features that have been brought together for you in the February issue of True Story Magazine.

Other Thrilling True Life Narratives are:

Why I Shall Never Marry
His Misjudged Wife
As Ye Sow
When A Woman Loves
What Price Virtue?
The Unwanted Woman
They Called Me A Fool
When Men Betray Broken Homes
Faithless Men
When Souls Are Tried
Salvaged Souls Tongues of Flame

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Becomes Domestically Minded for a Day

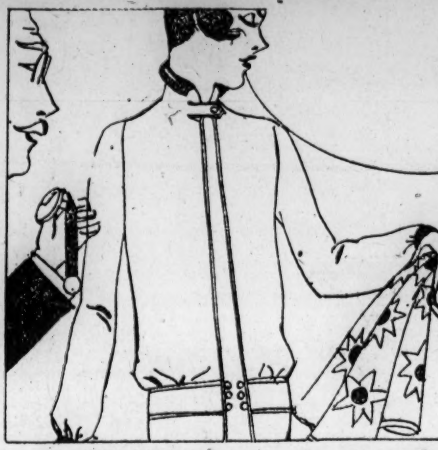

By Jay V. Jay

Dad doesn't often lecture but really somebody has to say something. Buttons off his shirt, nobody down at the breakfast table, coffee cold—well, Dad just suggests that our heroine stay home from shopping one day and keep the home fires burning. "Stay home," of course, doesn't mean in her room in that lacy negligee.

Dad wants action. Well, Mitzi thinks he should be pampered. She'll have breakfast with him just as soon as she puts on one of her brand new house dresses. This one has a small collar and tie and a leather belt. Pleats in the skirt. Should she wear this or had she better try on another?

So Mitzi tries on the other one—just to make sure which is the most becoming and then (just on such a busy morning too) she can't decide. This dress has a very smart high neck and a very long bloused effect. Meantime Dad has eaten breakfast and is about ready for lunch.

Left alone, Mitzi feels that having taken a course in the domestic arts one should wear a smock to do housework; for after all it is an art—one quite unappreciated by its cohorts. Art for art's sake—and a smock for the sake of convenience, prettiness and the mode!

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Is Your Husband a Grouch?

MY DEAR MISS McDONALD: It has always been a great pleasure to me to read your replies to perplexed people and to feel that a woman of experience and with a large stock of good common sense is trying really to help them to a better understanding of their problems. Today, however, when I read your reply to Dot, who has a grouchy husband, you have most surely missed the mark.

The conditions in Dot's home appear to parallel in several ways those in my mother's home, although I think my father was a much finer man than the man in the present instance. Father was 45 when mother was 30, kind and helpful, fond of his home and family, loved books, music and painting, in fact, a charming man in many, many ways. And yet, I shall never forget the periods of prolonged grouchiness which he inflicted upon my mother and for no real offense. It dated away back to the earliest days of their married life and lasted nearly through the 45 years they lived together. He did, under mother's lovely, tactful disposition, practically outgrow it during the latter years of his life.

Please do not forget that all natures are not alike, and that when some natures could laugh, another would be made most unhappy. You say "Why take the faults of a husband personally?" Why not build up a serene and interesting existence nonrelative to grouches and other natural phenomena of the married state? How could you write anything so foolish—you are usually so wise and kind? Have you ever lived with a black thundercloud in the house? For days and days not spoken to, unless from utmost necessity. If you haven't, how can you write sympathetically or helpfully on the subject? And, anyway, what is more "personal" than a husband?

You say that Dot is the victim of "too much comfort." Apparently you think that physical comfort is all that is necessary to give a woman cause for rejoicing and thanksgiving. Dot is to my mind, the victim of mental cruelty, without a doubt. The woman whose husband is a drunkard may be happier than the woman whose husband is a chronic groucher.

Please wake up, dear Frances McDONALD, and write something that will restore my good opinion of your common sense. JESSIE P.

It is superfluous, of course, to state that this is entirely confidential. It might have a salutary effect on some grouchy person to publish it, if it seems convincing to you, and do not mind the personal criticisms.

So you think, Jessie dear, that when I told a girl to "refuse to take a husband's faults personally," I was foolish? And you think it impossible for the wife of an occasional groucher to ever carry out the admonition to "build up a serene and interesting existence nonrelative to grouches and other matrimonial phenomena?" Then I suppose you will be astonished when I tell you the advice has been home-tested and can be guaranteed! True, a husband is a very personal thing indeed. But a lot of us take in so much territory when we stake our claim to the one unhappy man! If we could only let the poor man live—his grouches would be fewer. But we look upon him as an entertaining member of the family, a furnace man, a lover, and an insurance policy all at once—and resent the fact that we can't tell what he is thinking about!—he feels terribly sorry for some husbands and I still advise Dot to get something to think about besides herself and her husband's moods.

As to the criticism, any criticism sent without in between such nice sentiments as you express could not possibly leave a sting. Write again—and often. If I did not happen to err this time I will soon! This is NOT a mere column for the "Love-orn," but a real clearing house for human problems. Bring yours. Thrash it out. Talk about it. You need not sign your name.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHITE SPOTS ON THE TONGUE. THIS article has reference to firm, boardlike white, or whitish patches, on the tongue which go by the name of leukoplakia. It has no reference to white coating on the tongue such as many people think of as a sign of biliousness or stomach trouble.

To prevent confusion of another kind the patches of leukoplakia frequently occur on the cheeks, occasionally on the palate and lips, and, very rarely, on the floor of the mouth and gums.

The patches start as lines of whitish, fairly hard tissues, which finally join to make a patch. This patch may crack, ulcerate and bleed. They develop, as a rule, in men 45 and over. Rarely are they encountered in women.

The subject is worth while knowing about for three reasons. First, though easily observed, leukoplakia is generally quite well advanced before it is recognized. Second, it is preventable. Third, it occasionally occasions disfigurement to which about one-third of the recognized cases terminate in cancer.

The patches are in plain view when the interior of the mouth is inspected with a good mirror and under a bright light. If there appear to be whitish ridges the finger will tell whether these appear to be firm and cordlike. One authority says that men over 50 can frequently notice such hard lines, particularly on the inside of the cheeks, opposite the teeth. When such lines are recognized as due to leukoplakia the cause should be removed before patches develop.

The principal cause of leukoplakia of the mouth is the use of tobacco. Smoking a pipe ranks first among the causes. Scratching and cutting due to ragged teeth ranks next to tobacco. Third in rank comes the eating of hot food, but the other causes are the use of alcoholic beverages and of condiments. Chronic stomach trouble is also among the causes listed. Certain occupations, such as glass blowing, are listed among the causes.

To prevent and to cure cases diagnosed in the very early stages the proper policy is to remove the cause. The outstanding advice given the patient with leukoplakia, or who seems about to develop it, is to chuck tobacco. Second in rank is the advice to have his teeth put in order. This means having the sharp edges and points ground down, having the cavities filled, and having the teeth cleaned. The cleaning process must be repeated at least twice a year.

A change of occupation is advisable occasionally. About one-third the cases of leukoplakia develop into cancer. Fortunately, the cancers which follow leukoplakia are somewhat milder than other cancers of the mouth.

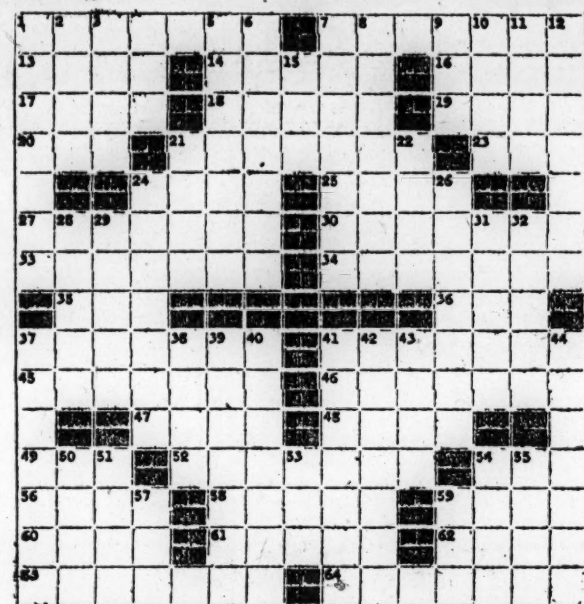

In discussing leukoplakia the general trend of opinion expressed by Drs. Fox, Bloodgood, Schamberg and others was that in most cases operation was inadvisable. So long as the leukoplakia does not bleed or ulcerate the best policy is to give it no local treatment. Should it ulcerate it should be burned out with a cautery or with diathermy, or radium should be used on it.

SNEEZES IN STREET CARS. J. C. C. writes: I heard just 30 sneezes in the elevated car this morning going down to business and am just wondering how many cases of grip, pneumonia, sinus and mastoid will result from this. It seems to me we should have signs up asking people to lower their noses and mouth.

REPLY. I agree with you. wonder if you looked for one. Maybe it was there, but you did not see it. Maybe the sneezers did not see it. Would you like to know how some folks avoid the danger you mention? They walk to and from work.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TO A FRIEND.
When I shall run my fortune through
To balance life's long bank account
I shall not, as misers do,
In money seek some large amount;

But I shall claim those treasures which Such sordid souls can't comprehend.
In countless ways God made me rich!
It was my luck to be your friend!

years of age who is confined to the schoolroom all day?

REPLY.
I think so. He should run a short distance during the hiking period.

A BIRTH ACIDENT.
Mrs. C. C. D. writes: My 5 months old baby girl has had one leg shorter than the other since birth, although it wasn't noticed until lately. It is also thinner than the other. Whenever we stand her up she stands on her left foot while her right foot is flat. She is a normal baby otherwise; it is not inherited.

REPLY.
My guess is that your child had a birth defect. An attack of unsuspected infantile paralysis is a possibility. Could you have X-ray pictures and other examination, that you may know what is wrong?

Some there must be with wealth and fame
To boast their selfish, paltry deeds,
But I shall say 'twas mine to claim
A privilege man sorely needs.

A gentler blessing God bestowed
On me unto the journey's end,
To share the burden and the road
It was my luck to be your friend.

Brave, gentle soul, my life has run Through kindly channels and serene,
In all that I have ever done
I've found your strength on which to lean.

In that I'm richer far than they Who have but yellow gold to spend,
For I can proudly boast today
It was my luck to be your friend.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Cicero, the Orator

MARCUS CICERO lived at the same time as Julius Caesar, and was the most famous orator of ancient Rome.

After six years spent in studying law and public speaking, he started upon a career as a lawyer. He was then 25 years old. Only a few years passed before he decided two things; that he must try to improve his health, and that he must become a better speaker. For this double purpose, Cicero set out upon wide travels. He visited Athens, and made a tour of Asia Minor. For a time he paused at the island of Rhodes and gave further study to public speaking.

Returning to Rome, he quickly rose in public favor and became consul, the highest office then open to any man in the empire. There was another man in Rome by the name of Lucius Catiline who had wanted to become consul. Having lost, he plotted to burn the city and to kill the Roman senators.

Cicero learned of the plot and made burning speeches to the Roman senate. He pointed out Catiline—who sat in the senate—as a traitor and an enemy of the public. Catiline fled to Gaul where he gathered an army. He was defeated in battle and fell as one of the victims of the fight.

Cicero was hailed as "the father of his country," and people offered thanks to the gods that he had saved Rome.

Fashion Hint

RICH IN NEW DETAILS.

For dressy wear this frock may be duplicated in supple black velvet, relying upon the button-trimmed sleeves, the moire ribbon tie-string, pockets cut in ones with flaring side panels and small revers for touches of outstanding chic. In the twills or high luster woolsens it would make a splendid design for general service. Down the center of the back is an applied band which may be omitted, if desired. Medium size requires 2 1/2 yards 54-inch or 4 1/4 yards 36-inch material.

Pictorial Review Printed Pattern No. 2850. Sizes 14 to 18 years, and 34 to 44 inches bust. Price, 45 cents.

ROUND THE WORLD NOTES.

(Clip for Scrapbook.)

IRELAND.

Ireland is called the "Emerald Isle" because of the green carpet of grass and shrubs which spreads over its rich soil. Much rain falls each year, and plants grow almost everywhere.

Ireland has a slightly greater area than Scotland. Its population is half a million less than Scotland's.

Three-fourths of the land of Ireland is under the rule of the Irish Free State. The northern counties making up Ulster are still a part of the United Kingdom. All of Ireland remains within the British Empire.

Long ago an Irishman declared that it would be easy for his country to become free from Great Britain. To do so, he said that one need only make two letters in "United Kingdom" change places. Do you know what two letters he was thinking of?

Ninety years ago Ireland's population was almost twice as great as it is now. The change has been largely due to the movement of families to American shores.

THE HOUSEKEEPER

By NANCY CAREY.

THURSDAY morning—and I am wondering what our readers will have to offer. If we must to market, go, which is, I hope, not the case with most of us, we shall want to market very lightly, for Saturday is almost upon us and there do not remain a great many meals with which to dispose of our odds and ends, and so start Sunday with a clean slate.

Some of us, possibly, have cold pot roast in the ice box, and so I am going to give you today a dinner menu which will allow for pot roast or a new dish, steak Espanol, as the case may be. Steak Espanol is a meat dish, the receipt for which comes to us from sunny Spain. It is not overly expensive to prepare, but will not, of course, be as small an item as will be the pot roast dish for those who tried Tuesday's dinner menu.

I cannot emphasize too strongly the advantage of thinking out and arranging meals in advance. They are less expensive, more attractive and far less of a burden to the housewife, however strange it may seem.

Now then, if you do have cold pot roast on hand, why not serve it either cold with hot vegetables, and, of course, mustard or horseradish, or, if you prefer a hot dish, sliced very thin and sautéed in butter for two minutes and served on a hot platter surrounded by gravy which has been heated with a clove of garlic, it being sure to remove the garlic before serving. If you have not enough gravy left over add a little more butter to the pan in which you sautéed the meat and rub into it a heaping tablespoonful of flour, and add slowly a cup and a half of hot water, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and a half teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet.

If on Wednesday you made vegetable soup, strain some of it for tonight and serve it with small squares of bread which have been baked in a pan in the oven until well browned, floating around on top. Put the vegetables you strained out back in the soup kettle and add a little lemon, not too thick. Over this pour a small bottle of tomato catsup to which has been added few drops of Worcestershire sauce. I warrant you will wish you lived in Spain.

MENU.

Strained Vegetable Soup with Croûtons Cold or Sautéed Pot-roast or Pickles Steak Espanol Celery
Baked Macaroni with Cheese
Lettuce Supreme Crackers
Coffee

Speak Espanol.

Buy a steak from the top of the round cut one and a half inches thick. Place this in a roasting pan and cover with, first, a layer of sliced Spanish onion, then a layer of sliced green pepper. In the center of each pepper ring place a small quantity of canned chili pepper (hot). Then cover the whole with slices of lemon, not cut too thin. Over this pour a small bottle of tomato catsup to which has been added few drops of Worcestershire sauce. I warrant you will wish you lived in Spain.

Baked Macaroni With Cheese.

This dish, if served with Steak Espanol, is a decided economy in that it can be baked while the steak is baking and thus avoid the use of an extra burner on the stove. As it is a starchy dish no potatoes should be served with it, instead rather a green vegetable. In this case, a salad has been planned. Drop a package of macaroni into boiling salted water and boil according to directions.

U. S. Steel and Consolidated Gas Lead Broad Rally Among Stocks.

RAILS AND OILS PICK UP

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Jan. 6.—The stock market rallied after early hesitancy today, emerging under the leadership of U. S. Steel and Consolidated Gas in the afternoon, in fact in which it had rested all the forenoon and becoming strikingly strong before the close. Dealings were in smaller volume, slightly under 1,700,000 shares.

In the reaction of the previous day and in the early trading today stocks had been rather overbid. It needed, therefore, only a little good news to induce the pools to resume operations, with the result that quotations were advanced sharply and gains ranging up to 7 1/2 points were freely scattered over the list at the close, and in one or two instances even greater improvement was shown.

The day's favorable news development came from the steel trappers. Other bullish rumors put in circulation dealt with anticipations of an early decision by the United States Supreme Court in favor of the Consolidated Gas Co. Then there were reports of large orders received by the equipments and, to supplement all this, were estimates of a 3 to 3.5 per cent stock dividend soon to be declared by Reynolds Tobacco.

Optimism was stimulated also by news that the Federal Mining & Smelting Co. had cleared up all arrears in dividends. The favorable news, coupled with reports of the unloading of stocks predicted for the week was not materializing, engendered renewed confidence in the market's position. It was agreed that most of the recent selling was done either to take profits on trading lines picked up during the year-end rise and sold on the recurrence of easy money or for short account.

In the forenoon the market reflected uncertainty in the minds of traders and of pools as an outcome of the receding tendency which stocks, particularly the industrials, had displayed since the beginning of the week. Not in months has opinion as to the probable trend of prices been so mixed. Among twenty persons views of almost every shade can be obtained. Meanwhile trading continues highly professional, with the small fry speculators extremely suspicious of any advance. A rise in price does not evoke the enthusiasm such a move would have produced a few weeks ago. On the contrary, it is interpreted to mean that pools are marking up quotations for the purpose of distribution.

The action of the Federal Mining & Smelting Co. directed attention to the great improvement which has taken place in the market for certain nonferrous metals, notably lead, silver and zinc, sharply in the last few years, as a result of which profits of companies producing them have expanded very materially.

Both the preferred and common stocks of the Federal Co. responded to the new trading goodly, but later they reacted sharply on the selling for profits and the common closed 4 1/2 net lower and 6 1/2 points under the day's high. American Smelting & Refining, as the chief beneficiary of the dividend declaration, advanced 2 1/2 and held 2 1/2 points, or all but fraction of its gain. Control of the Federal has been lodged in the hands of American Smelting for 20 years, and the dividends declared today will materially enrich the holding company's treasury.

Among the other metals, the market proved the turning point of the market. All steel stocks gathered strength. Other metal stocks also were in better demand, especially Kennecott Copper, Chile Copper and International Nickel, although all reacted lower.

The demand for the oils picked up in response to figures showing that production of crude petroleum had fallen this week to a daily average of less than 2,000,000 barrels for the first time since last April. General Electric, American Can, Pressed Steel Car and Remington Typewriter were strong specialties, but all but the last named, which finished 5 1/2 points up, yielded on profit taking.

Although General Motors and Hudson finished fractionally higher, most motors were easier. Nash lost 1/2. Pack 2 1/2 and Chrysler, old stock, 1 1/2. Loose Wiles, 4 1/2 off; Matheson Alkali, with a decline of 4 1/2. Fisher Body (5), with a decline of 4 1/2. National Lead, with a loss of 2 points or more, were weak spots.

Call money renewed at 4 1/2 per cent, the lowest renewal for standing call loans in a number of weeks. The quotation was cut to 4 per cent later.

Foreign exchanges were firm, sterling improving slightly, French francs recovering 3 points and other European rates rising moderately.

The series inaugural calls for a double-header on the Arcade floor, starting at 10 o'clock. To business and Western will give the honor of playing the first game, with Eastern and Tech getting in action later.

Although not scheduled for the opening day, Central will pass up the opportunity of seeing its rivals in action. Coach Coggins will escort his charges on another invasion of Pennsylvania. Central is booked to engage the York Collegiate institute and Columbia High.

While Western will enter its game with business, favorite, the remnants of Coach Woodward's team, which was broken up by advisory marks, have been showing improved form of late and may provide an upset before the series is an hour old.

STRENGTHENED BONDS
REFLECTS EASY MONEY

U. S. Loans Are First to Respond; French Issues Are Active.

RAIL GROUP ADVANCES

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Jan. 6. A return to a condition of relative ease in the money market, with renewals arranged at 4 1/2 per cent and the rate subsequently easing again to 4 per cent, caused general strength in the bond market today. United States bonds were the first to respond to this change in monetary conditions, all of them advancing fractionally.

Trading was only moderately active in the general market, but prices gained fractions to a point throughout the day. The foreign division again was featured by activity and strength in French loans, particularly the government 7s, which gained 3/4 point. Brazil issues were steady by news of the heavy overhauling of the Sao Paulo coffee loan.

In the railroad group prices were higher. There was a lively turnover in Baltimore & Ohio refunding 6s at a new high price; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul bonds gained fractions to 1 1/2 on a moderate turnover; N. & W. convertibles gained 2 points on a few sales, and Western Maryland 4s were up fractionally. There was a lively trade in "Knox" and Missouri Pacific bonds, but the sellers seemed to have a slight ascendancy.

In the industrial group Granby 7s reached a new high; Dery 7s, Punta Alegre Sugar 7s and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 1 1/2 gained 1/2 point and Pressed Steel Car 6s and 7s securities and Wilson Co. issues were lower.

PHONE RATE FIGHT OPENS AS COMPANY ASKS INJUNCTION

Permanent Restraining Order to Prevent Operation of $90,000 Cut Sought.

UTILITIES COMMISSION ERRS, COMPANY AVERS

Board Holds Firm's Valuation Is $18,576,956, Instead of $25,000,000.

The public utilities commission and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. began a telephone war yesterday before Chief Justice McCoy in equity court in a controversy involving what the telephone company shall pay for flat rate and party line service.

The new rates were announced on May 10 last to be effective June 10, but a temporary restraining order was issued by Justice Hoehling and the old rates remained in force under an impounding proposition similar to that which affected the case involving the rate fight brought by the Potomac Electric Power Co. The commission ordered that beginning June 10 the flat rate charge should be scaled down from $5 to $4.75 and that the number of calls on party lines, or limited lines, should be increased from 35 to 40 a month, for which subscribers pay $2.50 a month.

$90,000 Cut Ordered.

The new rates were intended to reduce Washington's telephone bill by at least $90,000 a year. The commission based its legal authority to reduce telephone rates on its valuation figures, affecting the telephone company's properties, which was fixed at $18,576,956 by the commission's engineers. The telephone company disagreed with those figures and contended that they should have been written as $25,000,000—or almost $7,000,000 more than the commission thought proper. The principal questions before Chief Justice McCoy as raised by the telephone company are expressed by the following objections to the findings of the commission:

The land owned by the company in the District was valued at $675,000, whereas, it is charged, the actual value is $1,000,000.

The commission excluded land valued by the company at $263,000 in arriving at its figures.

The commission valued the buildings of the company at $2,600,534, whereas the company charges that the value actually amounts to $2,954,886.

The commission estimated that certain "overhead and intangibles" of the company were valued at $2,810,000, whereas, the company charges, these figures should be $5,731,539.

The commission failed to include in its figures the "going concern" value—figures for which are fixed by the company at $2,800,000.

"Fair Return" Debated.

The commission determined that the fair allowance for working capital was $694,602, whereas, the company says, these figures ought to be $832,000.

The commission made extensive deductions for depreciation and reproduction costs and value of the properties. The commission deducted $3,998,000 altogether for depreciation, whereas, the company states, the figures should be $1,982,000.

Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens appeared for the commission and is contending that there are no errors in the commission's figures, while Attorney George P. Hoover, Dozier A. DeVane and Alexander Britton, counsel for the company, are contending that the objections just outlined are sufficiently weighty to warrant the court in continuing the restraining order and making it permanent. The hearing will be finished today.

WILL OF GEN. W. H. HART, BADLY MUTILATED, FILED

Retired Quartermaster Made Numerous Alterations in Disposing of $70,000.

RELATIVES SHARE ESTATE

The will of Maj. Gen. W. H. Hart, retired quartermaster of the army, who died January 2, which was badly mutilated, was filed yesterday in probate court. The estate is valued at about $70,000.

Gen. Hart was buried Monday with military honors in the Arlington cemetery, although he directs in his will that his body be cremated and his ashes thrown into the sea at any convenient place. He mutilated his will by using red ink and black ink in making alterations and erasures and defacing, unintentionally, some of the paragraphs. As nearly as can be figured out, he divides his estate into 20 parts. He names his cousin, John J. Liebe of St. Louis as executor and residuary legatee and directs Liebe to distribute the personal effects among the relatives.

The executor and his family and William Liebe and family each get three-twentieths. The cousins, Elizabeth and Margaret O'Rourke get three-twentieths, and a cousin, described as "Murphy," gets one-twentieth. Helen Crowley and Margaret Lane are to receive three-twentieths and a cousin, Mary O'Meara, and her sister, Nora, get two-twentieths. R. J. Burton, chief clerk to Gen. Hart, is given one-twentieth and Mrs. Margaret Coover is given three-twentieths.

Mrs. Alice L. Reed, widow of Capt. Richard Bailey Reed, a well-known river pilot, who died December 30, as the result of an automobile accident, is given the Reed home, at 631 H street southwest and its contents for life, according to the will filed yesterday. The balance of the estate goes to the children, Linwood, Inez and Richard.

Mrs. Julia R. Rice, who died December 30, left an estate valued at $17,500, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed by her husband, E. Clarence Rice. The estate includes the home at 1300 Jefferson street northwest.

The commission determined that the fair allowance for working capital was $694,602, whereas, the company says, these figures ought to be $832,000.

The commission made extensive deductions for depreciation and reproduction costs and value of the properties. The commission deducted $3,998,000 altogether for depreciation, whereas, the company states, the figures should be $1,982,000.

Poole for which he acted as ancillary administrator.

Chief Justice McCoy in probate court yesterday directed that a commission issue to J. Arthur Lynham to examine Garrett, who is alleged to have been $7,763 short in his accounts. Garrett was removed as administrator and his last account was held to have been fraudulent. Luther C. Poole, one of the heirs, was appointed ancillary administrator to succeed Garrett. Poole and Attorney Leon Pretzfelder will attempt to trace the funds belonging to the estate.

EPISCOPAL DEBT FALLS RAPIDLY, SAYS BISHOP

Rt. Rev. Murray Reports That $1,000,000 Is Raised
Since October.

HONORED AT LUNCHEON

The Rt. Rev. John Gardner Murray, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America, announced yesterday at a luncheon given in his honor at the National Cathedral that more than $1,000,000 has been donated or pledged toward the fund to wipe out the church's debt, which amounts to $1,500,000.

The $1,000,000, Bishop Murray said, has been raised since the general conference of bishops in New Orleans in October. Appeals for funds to cover the budget for 1926 also have been answered magnificently, he stated.

Bishop Murray, whose diocese is part of Maryland, also announced that he had appointed Bishop James E. Freeman, of this city, as a member of the commission on national evangelization. Other appointments, he said, would be announced at a meeting of the national council in New York January 21.

The luncheon, which was held in the guild hall of St. Alban's, followed picturesque services in Bethlehem chapel in celebration of the Feast of the Epiphany. The chapel was filled to capacity long before the service began and many worshippers were forced to stand.

LARGE IMMIGRATION INFLUX HELD ENDED

W. W. Husband Tells D. A. R.
Group Fewer Aliens Will Come to U. S. in Future.

The days of tremendous immigration are gone forever, according to W. W. Husband, Second Assistant Secretary of Labor, who spoke yesterday before the Americanization committee of the D. A. R. at the Webster school, Tenth and H streets northwest.

After remarking on the decrease in immigration since the war, Mr. Husband stated that in his opinion immigrants would never come in great numbers again. Before the war there were 1,000,000 immigrants a year. Last year there were but 294,000 and a large number of these were from Mexico and Canada.

Mr. Husband also spoke of the experiment, tried last summer for the first time, of examining immigrants at their homes or a nearby consulate in order to prevent their making the journey to this country only to be rejected. This attempt was so successful that of all the immigrants from England and the Irish Free State who were passed at their homes only six were rejected at Ellis Island, one because she had gone insane while crossing the ocean.

MEMORIAL BRIDGE BIDS WILL BE LET, IGNORING M'CARL

Commission Plans to Award
Contracts Today for Construction Work.

RULING HOLDING THEM VOID CAUSES SURPRISE

Some Delay Now Feared in Building the First Piers and Abutments.

Despite that Comptroller General McCarl yesterday ruled that its contracts for architectural and engineering services are without authorization by existing law, the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission is taking steps to let contracts today for the construction of six piers and four abutments, the first actual construction work on the Arlington Memorial bridge.

The comptroller's ruling came as a surprise and shock to the officials who plan to open bids of various contractors for the pier and abutment work of the bridge. They feel, however, that the full case has not been presented and that Comptroller McCarl will grant a new hearing and that matters can be adjusted.

"We believe that modification of the terms of the contracts, together with additional information, will permit an amendment or change which will be legal in the opinion of the Comptroller general," Maj. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, said.

Construction Delay Feared.

It is feared now that the comptroller's decision will cause some delay in the construction of the bridge. McKim, Mead & White, the architects, and W. J. Douglas, the consulting engineers, whose contracts have been held void, are constantly needed on the bridge work and will be consulted throughout the period of construction. If, as a result of the comptroller's decision, they withdraw from the project, a serious problem will result.

Bids for the pier and construction work of the bridge will be opened at 11 o'clock this morning. The contracts for this work will be let as soon as possible. Meanwhile, specifications for the stone work are being drawn and plans of the bridge work will be rushed to expedite construction by giving competitors for the remaining work an early opportunity to submit bids.

Under the contracts to be let, the contractor handling the pier work will be required to complete the work within 730 days and will be given a bonus of $400 for each day earlier that he completes it. He will be taxed $400 a day for each additional day he requires. There will be no bonus for fewer than 550 days.
